HITLER TROOPS SET TO STORM CRIMEA PORT

British Boarding Parties Take Over Five Vichy Craft Off South Africa.

(By Associated Press)

German field batteries were reported shelling Russia's great Black sea naval base of Sevastopol today, and Nazi front-line dispatches declared that after driving 90 miles across the Crimea in seven days, Axis troops were ready to storm the city "within a very few hours."

Powerfully fortified, Sevastopol resisted a British-French-Turkish siege for 11 months, in 1854-55, but advices reaching London conceded that the Germans already had immobilized the port as a base for operations of the Soviet Black sea fleet.

How long it could withstand a siege under the hammering of modern weapons was another questions.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said German troops knifing clear across the Crimea had captured the eastern coastal town of Feodosiya, on the southern side of the narraw isthmus leading to the Kerch strait, perhaps thereby cutting off the eastern avenue of escape to the Caucasus.

German dispatches said the Red armies trapped in the Crimea—variously estimated to number from 250,000 to 500,000—faced almost inevitable annihilation, and that the shattered remnants were fleeing headlong to the sea in the hope of duplicating the British withdrawal from Dunkerque.

However, the Nazis made a similar claim when Soviet troops falling back through the Ukraine took a stand at Odessa, where

Election Party At N-J To Give Speediest Service

It may rain tonight but The News-Journal's traditional election party will go on just the same.

The News-Journal's veteran and experienced election machinery which tabulates returns far ahead of usual tabulation centers, is ready to give Mansfielders the speediest service available tonight.

A big screen on a building across Walnut street from The News-Journal office will provide the latest returns on the city contests and others of interest until the races have been decided.

Returns will be flashed as soon as the first precincts complete their tabulations, which is expected to be about 7:30 p. m. The public is invited to the party, of course, but for those persons who can't come downtown, latest news on the election will be available by telephone from The News-Journal. Just call 4251-6 and tell the operator what contest or contests you want to know about.

FIGHT RIVER

Workers Reinforce Dykes as Waters Continue Rampage.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(INS)—The rebellious Arkansas river, burdened beyond normal by weeks of heavy rains, pushed dangerously against levees at Morrilton and other downstream points today as workers under direction of U. S. army engineers strove desperately to support the Dykes.

A major flood threat was dissipated last night when the river, after reaching a modern high-water mark of 37.3 feet at Fort Smith, began receding in that area without causing any great damage.

Nazis Back Finland In 'No' to Hull

Berlin Indignant Over 'Interference' for Peace By U. S.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Nazi Germany will back Finland with all its strength in rejecting Secretary of State Cordell Hull's bid for cessation of hostilities between Finland and Russia, the Wilhelmstrasse announced today.

German officials expressed deep indignation over Washington's alleged "interference" and praised the Finnish government for its "courage in announcing" that Hull's description of a Soviet peace offe. "was not correct in all particulars."

(Editor's Note: The government of Finland has not yet replied to Hull's message. The Wilhelmstrasse apparently regarded as authentic and official a DNB dispatch from Helsinki quoting the official Finnish news agency as denying the accuracy of Washington dispatches concerning the Soviet offer.)

The Wilhelmstrasse outdid itself in castigating American policies. Tghis time, they were summed up under the general heading of "ghetto gangsterism."

Axis journalists present at the press conference applauded as a spokesman said:

"Finland's retort to this ghetto gagngsterism is the sharpest rebuke yet hande dto the United States.

"The ggovernment in Washington—a regime headed by gangsters — has displayed an unparalleled arrogance.

"Finland's reply speaks for all Europe, which rises in indignant protest against the mud-slinging methods of Roosevelt and Hull, which cannot halt the coming destruction of Bolshevism and the safeguarding of Europe's better future.

"This is a singular incident in diplomatic history. It is deserving

LEAVE OUTPOSTS

Women and Children Removed From Wake, Guam, Midways.

HONOLULU—(INS)—Removal of all women and children from America's Pacific outposts of Wake, Guam and Midway Islands was reported underway today.

From Midway, clipper planes brought six women and children. They are the families of employes of Pan American Airways, a cable company and a building firm.

Some 500 Japanese Nationals also prepared today to return to their homeland aboard the Japanese liner Taiyo Maru, which was dispatched by the Nipponese government for this purpose. Sailing of the vessel was postponed to Wednesday because of the thorough check being made of the passengers' belongings by federal inspectors.

169 Executed Following Clash With Military Forces.

ZAGREB, Croatia —(AP)— Execution of 169 Serbs before a firing squad Oct. 24 in the Province of Sumadia, near Belgrade, was reported in belated dispatches received here today.

The executions and arrest of 84 other Serbs were said to have been the result of a clash between the military and alleged Communists during the night of Oct. 22.

Driver Trapped In Truck Wreck Near Here

In one of the freak accidents of the year, this tractor-truck and semi-trailer, loaded with 6,000 gallons of gasoline, shown above, turned completely over, leaving the trailer upright and pinning the driver unhurt in the cab for half an hour early this morning eight miles north of Mansfield at the junction of state routes 96 and 13. Wesley J. Burke, Toledo, driver of the truck, is shown below looking at the cab of his outfit which was his prison until help was attracted by his flashlight.

QUICK ACTION AVERTS BLAST

Firemen Put Out Blaze After Car Hits Pump, Spilling Flaming Gas on Car.

Quick action by the Mansfield fire department prevented the possible explosion of a gasoline pump and the spread of fire this morning after an auto crashed into the pump following a collision with another car at the intersection of First and Main streets.

Police reported that autos driven by Mrs. Helen Cahall, Gambier, and Guy M. Wierick, Mansfield, collided after Mrs. Cahall's car skidded on the wet pavement.

Following the collision, the Gambier woman's auto crashed into a gasoline pump in the Mowry service station at the northwest corner of the intersection. Force of the second collision knocked the pump over onto a third car parked there and owned by Charles V. Hill, Mansfield R. D. 4, covering it with flames.

None was hurt in the accident. Mrs. Cahall was badly shaken up but did not need medical treatment. Hill was not in his auto when the gasoline pump fell on it.

Mansfield firemen quickly quenched the fire by use of chemicals. Police held back a large group of spectators who crowded near the fire, endangering their lives through possible shower of flaming gas if the pump had exploded.

Hill's auto was badly burned in the blaze. Both Mrs. Cahall's and Wierick's cars were damaged considerably.

Police said that Mrs. Cahall's auto also knocked over a light standard as it glanced off Wierick's car and crashed into the service station pump.

Trucker Trapped In Wreckage, Signals Aid With Flashlight

Pinned under 6,000 gallons of gasoline when his tractor and trailer upset at the intersection of State Routes 13 and 96 eight miles north of Mansfield early this morning, Wesley J. Burke, Toledo, signalled with his flashlight for a half hour before attracting the attention of passing motorists who managed to extricate him, unhurt, from the cab.

In what the state highway patrol described as a freak accident, the huge tractor and semi-trailer, with a four-wheeled trailer attached, was traveling north on Route 13 when the truck and semi-trailer turned completely over as Burke made a left turn onto Route 96.

In spite of the fact that the outfit carried 6,000 gallons of gasoline, the only amount lost was a trickle from the tractor tank.

Patrolmen pointed out that had the gasoline been ignited by the wreck, Burke would have probably been burned to death.

Trapped upsidedown in his cab, with the steering wheel jammed against his chest, Burke could do nothing more than blink his flashlight through a side window in the hope that someone would see it and come to his rescue.

A passing motorist happened to see his wavering light at approximately 2:45 a. m. and stopped to investigate.

After getting Burke from the cab, and making certain that he was unhurt, the motorist called state highway patrolmen.

Patrolmen said that Burke was headed toward Ashland when the accident occurred.

Women Toss Eggs, Tomatoes At Lord Halifax In Detroit

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT — Women peace demonstrators showered eggs and tomatoes on Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, today as he entered the Chancery building on Washington boulevard in downtown Detroit for a meeting with Archbishop Edward Mooney of Detroit.

The ambassador, making a two-day tour of Detroit's defense industries, was struck by several eggs before police broke up the demonstration.

Detective Inspector Charles E. Searle, who was accompanying Lord Halifax, said the women were apparently the same who picketed the entrance of the Book-Cadillac hotel Monday, during Halifax's visit, carrying placards reading "Down With England' 'and "Halifax Is a War Monger."

Halifax, his aplomb unshaken by the barrage, said after he was safely inside the building: "Well, I came in this way and I intend to go out this way."

Police said the demonstration was started by a group which calls itself "The Mothers of America."

Besides meeting with Archbishop Mooney, Halifax had arranged to talk here today with Bishop Frank W. Creighton, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Michigan, and other church dignitaries. A private meeting with Henry Ford also was scheduled, as well as an appearance before the convention of the National Association of Real Estate boards.

EARLY VOTING LIGHT AS CITY GOES TO POLLS

Total Vote of 11,000 Looms on Basis of N-J Survey of Precincts.

VOTING HEAVY IN FIFTH

Republican Second Ward Also Shows More Balloting Than In Other Wards.

Light to average voting for an "off-year" election was reported today throughout Mansfield as electors went to the polls under threatening skies to elect city officials for the next two years, three board of education members, and decide on a proposed half-mill levy for more fire protection.

A total vote of approximately 11,000 in the city was indicated by a News-Journal survey conducted in all of the six city wards shortly before noon. That figure is about 2,000 under the vote cast in the municipal election two years ago and slightly more than half of the registered voters in the city.

A light vote was forecast for most of the 873 cities and villages, 1,988 county and local school districts, and 1,400 townships in Ohio which were electing officials and balloting on tax levies and bond issues today.

The secretary of state predicted a total vote of about 2,000,000 in the state and estimated that the election would cost $700,000 in Ohio.

There was no state-wide issue and not even one of county-wide interest in Richland county where at least half a dozen districts voted on proposed tax levies, one bond issue, and centralization of two school districts.

More than half of the precincts checked reported average voting. Nearly half of them said the voting was light, and only two, Precinct D of the First ward and Precinct D of the Fifth ward, said the early vote was heavy.

Largest numbers of voters re-

Treasury Deficit Climbs To Over $54,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The treasury announced today its debt has gone over $54,000,000,000.

The treasury's obligations jumped overnight by $509,047,881 to a record total of $54,098,095,752 because of the issuance of new treasury notes to refund approximately a half billion dollars of Reconstruction Finance Corporation and Commodity Credit corporation notes.

While the overall debt of the government did not change, the treasury debt rose a half billion and the aggregate debts of government corporations declined about the same amount, leaving about $6,440,000,000 of other corporation debts to be refunded some time in the next five years.

However, he appeared to doubt that there was as much steam behind the drive as was indicated by its spokesmen.

Vessel Limps To Port With No Casualties

Capital Shocked At Loss Of Life In Sinking Of Destroyer

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The navy gave the nation a grim accounting today on the cost of the battle of the Atlantic—97 men probably lost in the torpedoing of the destroyer Reuben James, and 12 more killed in the crash of a big bomber on patrol somewhere at sea.

The destroyer's heavy losses shocked the capital which had been waiting anxiously since Friday for news, but the navy indicated it did not expect the total to diminish.

"The navy department," a communique stated, "holds little hope for the rescue of the seven officers and 88 (enlisted) men who have not been accounted for."

Of those accounted for, two were dead. The body of one was recovered from the sea after the Reuben James went down somewhere west of Iceland the night

Bucyrus Youth Not Among Survivors

Not listed on the navy department's official list of survivors of the torpedoed destroyer Reuben James, Carl Cooperrider, 21-year-old Bucyrus sailor, was given up as lost today. Cooperrider is believed to be among the seven officers and 88 crew members missing since Thursday night when the destroyer was sunk in the North Atlantic. The Bucyrus youth was serving on convoy duty to Iceland.

Ship Attacked On Convoy Duty In Iceland Waters Last Wednesday

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The navy announced today another torpedoing in North Atlantic waters—that of the United States naval tanker Salinas—but said that happily there was no further loss of life to add to the 97 men presumed lost on the sunken destroyer Reuben James.

The Salinas was "torpedoed without warning," a terse navy statement said. Seriously damaged, she made her way to port.

"No details of the damage will be released as it will be of no value except to the Nazis," the navy said in disclosing that the tanker was hit last Wednesday night southwest of Iceland.

This was one day before, and in the same general area where the Reuben James, first American warship to be lost in the battle of the Atlantic, went down.

The 16,800-ton Salinas was in a convoy when attacked, the navy said.

Counted also as victims of the ocean warfare were 12 more navy men killed in the crash of a big patrol bomber somewhere at sea. The Salinas is commanded by Commander Harley F. Cope of New Orleans, La.

The tanker was built by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., for the U. S. Shipping Board in 1920.

It was transferred to the navy and commissioned December 16, 1921.

The navy described the vessel as being of 16,800 tons displace-

ALL LOST: 12 Die As Navy Bomber Crashes In Atlantic

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A thorough probe was expected to be launched today into the crash of a giant navy bomber somewhere in the Atlantic, taking the lives of 11 naval airmen and an army officer.

The navy department announced during the night that with discovery of the wreckage of the two-motored PBY flying boat, missing since Sunday, it was found that all aboard had perished.

The cryptic naval announcement that the ship was "operating in the Atlantic ocean area," gave vent to speculation that it was on patrol duty in the navy's effort to drive the German "rattlesnakes" out of American defensive waters.

No details were given as to the probable cause of the crash. Officials insisted, however, that there was nothing to indicate that the craft might have possibly been shot down.

The 15-ton ship had a range of 4,000 miles at a crusing speed of more than 200 miles an hour, according to navy officails. Except for the presence of the army officer, it carried a normal wartime complement, including ordnance men or gunners.

The army officer was 2nd Lt. W. P. Robinson, Chicago.

The crew list follows:

NO CHOICE: Norris Asserts U. S. Must Arm Its Shipping

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.) declared today the United States "has no choice except to arm our ships and permit them to sail to the ports of our friends," as provided by the pending legislation for neutrality act revision.

The only man still in the senate who cast his vote against American entry into the World war, Norris told reporters that "you can not compare the present war with the last one."

He voiced his views as the senate went into its eighth day of debate on the revision measure—to the accompainment of a spirited cloakroom dispute on how slim or substantial the bill's generally conceded victory would be.

Opponents of President Roosevelt's foreign policy predicted a hair-line vote. Senator Taft)R., O.) went even farther, contending that "there still are enough uncommitted members to beat this thing."

All such claims, however, failed to perturb administration leaders who looked forward to the decisive roll call later this week with the utmost confidence. Some asserted that at least 55 of the senate's 96 votes would be cast in favor of the revision legislation.

Norris said he believed there was "no doubt that the people of the country will support revision of the neutrality law. The people realize our danger, and they want us to face it squarely.

"Here we have a man (Adolf Hitler) who is out to conquer the world." Every act of his has made his intention clear. . . .

"If Hitler should win out over Russia and Great Britain then no free nation in the world would be secure."

Administration leaders were striving for a final vote tomorrow. Taft though they might get it, but Senator Wheeler (D.Mont.), another administration opponent, said Thursday or Friday was more likely.

REUBEN JAMES DEATH TOTAL CLIMBS TO 97

Capital Shocked as Navy Says There's Little Hope For Officers, Crew.

of Oct. 30-31. The other sailor died after being rescued.

The known survivors totaled 45. Eight were injured, but only one was reported in a serious condition.

The casualties of the Reuben James were made public shortly after midnight, intensifying the impact of the earlier disclosure that one of the Atlantic command's huge bombers had been lost with all aboard.

Killed in the bomber crash were two navy officers, nine enlisted men and an army officer who was described as a passenger. The navy's statement said the wreckage of the ship had been found and it was understood that the bodies had been recovered.

The bomber had been missing since mid-morning Sunday, the department announced, but withheld information for the present on the location of the crash, the type of ship and other details.

While there was nothing official on the subject, it was hinted broadly that the plane probably was one of the navy's long-range PBY patrol ships, which have been serving as the eyes for the surface fleet operations.

Since the United States occupied Iceland and President Roosevelt ordered the armed services to keep the sea lanes open to North America, twelve other men have lost their lives. Eleven were killed in the U-boat attack on the destroyer Kearny, and one army flier with the Iceland task force met death when his warplane crashed.

If the indicated Reuben James losses prove correct, the list of men who have perished in line of duty will total 121 since Aug. 19, the day the army flier was killed.

The Reuben James casualty breakdown showed that she was carrying 142 officers and men in her crew—a heavier complement than originally believed. The normal complement for a destroyer of her type is 122, but she was operating under virtual wartime conditions when crews are usually larger.

The navy made public the list of the destroyer's known dead—W. H. Merrell, a fireman, first class, of Ardmore, Tenn., and D. R. Olmstead, fireman, second class, of Olean, N. Y.—and of the 45 survivors. The names of the enlisted men unaccounted for were not released. The names of the seven missing officers were made public last Friday, when the number of enlisted men survivors was placed tentatively at 44.

The Reuben James was on convoy duty when she was torpedoed, and that fact at first gave rise to hopes that the casualties might not be heavy. It was thought then that many of the men might have been picked up by other ships in the convoy, but that their rescue had not been reported because the ships were observing radio silence in U-boat infested waters. Many times in the past survivors of sinkings have been listed as missing for several days until the ship rescuing them reached the safety of port.

The whole tenor of the navy's announcement however, was calculated to dash such hopes in this case. It was considered significant that the communique listed only one more survivor than the number given last Friday in the preliminary report of the torpedoing. Moreover, the fact that casualties had been reported in detail apparently was evidence that the need for radio silence had ended, so far as this particular convoy was concerned

Ironically, the announcement of the heavy navy casualties came less than a dozen hours after the state department revealed that Germany had refused to reply to a request for damages in the case of the Robin Moor—the first United States merchant ship to be sunk by a U-boat this year.

Although no lives were lost, the sinking of the Robin Moor in the South Atlantic on May 21 was one of the incidents that helped contribute to shoot-on-sight policy finally adopted in mid-September for the navy's patrol of defensive waters.

The state department said that the United States has asked $2,967,092 in damages for the loss of the merchantman if payment was made in 90 days

This request was transmitted to the German charge d'affairs Hans Thomsen, on Sept 19 Either he had been given a copy of President Roosevelt's special message to congress on the Robin Moor sinking to forward to his government. In his message Mr Roosevelt charged the Nazi leaders with piracy and ruthless terrorism in their U-boat tactics.

Thomsen, the state department revealed, sent the state department an answer on Sept. 26, saying that "the two communications made are not such as to lead to an appropriate reply by my government"

The state department did not indicate what further action, if any was contemplated in the case.

ported at the time of the survey were 69 in the heavily Republican Precinct B of the Second ward and 63 in Precinct I of the Third ward. Both are large precincts with over 400 registered voters.

A light rain fell for about an hour in mid-morning, but it stopped before noon. Party leaders said the vote probably would be reduced sharply should it rain during the afternoon.

Helping to stimulate interest in Mansfield was the active campaign in behalf of the half-mill fire levy. Without it, both party leaders admitted the vote probably would be much smaller.

Voters in Madison township outside Mansfield balloted on the continuation of a three-mill levy for operation of its schools. Also helping to bring out the township voters was a heated school board contest. Six candidates were seeking the three offices to be filled.

Mosts bets posted in the city were for even money on the outcome of the mayoralty race between Mayor William J. Locke, Republican, and Fred M. Bushnell, Democrat. One $25 bet that Mayor Locke would win by at least 500 votes was posted. Lack of interest in the city contests was reflected, however, in the small number of bets posted.

Heads of both Democratic and Republican organizations said they were "confident of victory." G O. P. leaders predicted the re-election of Mayor Locke by "from 1,500 to 2,000 votes"

While he declined to use figures in his predictions, Marshall C. Moore, Democratic campaign chairman, said party workers had reported a "definite trend to our ticket in the past week and we should win by a substantial majority."

Holding the spotlight in Ohio municipal contests was the race between Judge Frank J Lausche, Democrat, and Edward Blythin, Cleveland's Republican mayor seeking re-election. Most observers in the Lake Erie metropolis gave Judge Lausche an edge in the election and forecast a return of city control to the Democrats after eight years of Republican domination.

Mansfield banks and state offices were closed this afternoon and state liquor stores in the city were closed all day because of the election.

40 GET EXAMS

County Draftees Report For Physicals at Armory.

Forty more Richland county selective service registrants went to the Mansfield Armory today for physical examinations in what was expected to be the last group examination session in the county.

Centralized examinations at Fort Hayes in Columbus will begin in two weeks with more than 100 Richland countians already ordered to report there for physical check-ups.

All of the youths examined at the Armory today were from the two city and county districts served by Boards 1 and 3. Board 2 already has enough men qualified to fill its November quota.

Under the system in use since the selective service law became operative last fall, prospective inductees have been required to take two physical examinations, one in Mansfield and the other in Columbus. After mid-November they will take only one. It will be at the induction center.

they held out for many weeks before withdrawing.

Nazi reports from the front said German dive bombers already had sunk or damaged 26 Russian transports waiting in the harbors of Sevastopol, Kerch and Yalta.

On the high seas, the London admiralty announced British warships had sent boarding parties aboard five French merchant ships intercepted off South Africa and frustrated attempts by the crews to scuttle the vessels.

Declaring the merchantmen, escorted by a French sloop, had refused permission to be searched, the admiralty accused the Vichy regime of "attempting to run contraband for the Germans from the east to France."

Naval action flared overnight in the English channel, as well, with the admiralty reporting that British warships "heavily engaged" strong Axis forces escorting a supply ship, which was torpedoed and "probably sunk or beached."

One British ship was damaged and five men wounded in the action, the admiralty said, while "damage and casualties are likely to have been inflicted on the enemy."

Elsewhere in the battle of the Atlantic, the German high command credited Nazi bombers and U-boats with sinking a destroyer and 14 merchant ships totalling 73,000 tons in a new series of attacks on Britain's vital supply lines.

German aims of Crimean offensive might be:

A drive into the oil-rich Caucasus.

A long push eastward against Astrakhan, the Volga river delta port which is a base for British-United States supplies shipped to Russia from Iran by the Caspian sea, or Simple outflanking the Russian army of Rostov.

Reports to London said German bombers and artillery had immobilized Sevastopol's naval base so that the Soviet warships which have dominated Black Sea shipping lanes throughout the war would not find its use for refuelling and servicing impractical.

Military observers in London expected the Russian fleet to choose Novorossick, a Caucasion commercial port of 100,000, as a new base.

Germans, speaking primarily of possible troop withdrawals, also mentioned Novorossick as a possible Russian haven, but said the Soviet ships would face a long trip under the bombsights of German planes even if they should succeed in embarking.

Estimates of the number of Russians in the Crimean defense units varied widely. British military men said they totalled from 500,000 to 750,000. Germans estimated that less than 250,000 Soviet troops were originally stationed in the peninsula and they said 53,000 had captured and many more were casualties.

The Soviet high command was reported to have reinforced Moscow's lines with 200,000 troops trained and equipped in Siberia for winter fighting, and dispatches to London said Soviet counter attacks had recaptured several villages on the central front.

Red army bulletin tersely reported bitter, all-night fighting "on all fronts" but gave no details of the critical battle before Moscow or about Rostov-on-Don.

In the north, Russian troops operating in the Karelia sector north of Leningrad were credited with breaking through Finnish lines and wiping out more than two companies of Finns in a brief engagement.

The German high command said two attempts by strong tank-led Soviet troops to break out of the Leningrad siege ring had been smashed "with heavy, bloody losses."

In the Far East, Japanese newspapers renewed their anti-American editorial campaign today, declaring that "the time has come for the final showdown."

The newspaper Kukomin said Japan must assume the failure of Tokyo-Washington talks unless the United States changed its present attitude. The talks were initiated last August by former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, who was subsequently succeeded by the pro-Axis Gen. Hideki Tojo.

of all praise to see courageous little Finland kick in the belly those arrogant persons in Washington who have lost all reason in their hypocrisy and dissolute ravings.

"This is the same bunch that in 1940 could not be loud enough in cursing and shouting down Stalin's blood-dripping rape of Finland. It is the same gang that praised Finland to the skies for paying her war debts when the British defaulted, and wheng gUncle Sam was called Uncle Shylock.

"It is the same gang, calling itself a Democratic government, which is now serving notice upon a Democratic government in Finland to prostrate itself before the beaten Bolshevist.

"We as Europeans now and henceforth reject such meddling as one people."

The spokesman charged that Washington is trying to use Finland as a "breeding rabbit" to gauge the success of interference in European affairs and re-emphasized that Germany would back the Finnish regime to the limit.

Finns Capture Kiovisto Islands

HELSINKI, Finland — (AP) — The Finns officially announced today the occupation of the Koivisto islands in the Gulf of Finland.

The islands and fortress served as the western anchor of the Mannerheim line which was long defended by the Finns in their 1934-40 winter war with Russia.

Finns Expected to Keep on Fighting

STOCKHOLM—(INS)—Finland stands firm in her resolution to re-establish her old frontiers without fear of assault, dispatches from Helsinki indicated today.

Finland, therefore, is expected to reply to the United States demand for Russo-Finnish peace in the same vein as Finland's recent retort to Britain: that Finland has no intention of invading non-Finnish territories, but will not stop fighting until her security is guaranteed for all time.

People of Finland learned for the first time today that Russia since Aug. 18 has been willing to discuss peace and cede territory to Finland.

Halifax Says Finns 'In Tough Spot'

DETROIT—(INS)—Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, has this to say today of Secretary of State Hull's statement concerning Finland's continuing its war against Russia:

"You know, after all, the Finns are in a pretty tough spot. They have been quite a weight upon Russia in the current situation, particularly at Leningrad, and if this weight were removed, it would help considerably.

"I hope this (Secretary Hull's statement) will have that effect."

MORTGAGE FOR 18 MILLION IN BUCYRUS OFFICE

Railroad Lien Largest Ever Filed In Crawford County Recorder's Records.

BUCYRUS—An $18,000,000 mortgage on railroad property formerly known as the Nypeno Railroad company, and a deed transferring the property to the Erie Railroad company was filed in the office of County Recorder Oliver Hartman, Monday, representing one of the largest mortgages on file in the county office.

Property in 27 counties in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York is represented in the deal which involved 388.39 miles of track and adjacent property, including four branch tracks, two of which are in Ohio.

The property transferred has been operating under trusteeship since filing for bankruptcy several years ago.

Mortgage fees and other supplemental transfer fees totaled more than $100.

ISSUE 32 LICENSES

BUCYRUS — Slightly higher than the figure a year ago, marriage licenses issued in October numbered 32, as compared with 27 in the same month in 1940. Only eight licenses were issued in September following the flood of permits issued in August prior to the new marriage law requiring physicial examinations.

GO TO TOMB

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus Boy Scout Troop 19 again attended the annual pilgrimage to Harding's tomb in Marion Sunday with a perfect attendance, which was the fourth consecutive year the perfect record has been attained.

In recognition of its perfect record, the troop will be pictured in Boys' Life magazine in a current issue, according to information from national headquarters in New York. The troop was photographed for the national magazine before leaving for Marion Sunday.

Troop 19 also took honors Sunday by being represented by the largest membership in the emergency mobilization roll call.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

CRESTLINE — The sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Metz was celebrated with a dinner at their home on North Thoman street Sunday.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Wednesday, Nov. 5.

An unpredictable day, in which the curious, strange, spectacular and quite unexpected may materialize. In many phases the novel or peculiar may take form, either in character manifestation, in work or professional labors, in science, invention or unusual research may give spur to the ambitions. But while this originality and independent thought may be profitably launched there is every danger from treachery, duplicity, subtle opposition or sinister plots or schemes. Keep free from entanglements and heed the intuitions.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which the unfathomable and unpredictable may come to light. This may be in strange adventures or in the expressional or original talents, inventive genius, in novel or spectacular discoveries which may incite enmity and jealousy of the most sinister forms. Keep alert to subtlety, craft and pernicious plots or fraudulent schemes.

A child born on this day should be endowed with very unusual traits of character or inner urges, with faculties and talents quite out of the ordinary. Its intuitions and inspirations may be safely followed but always with a vigilance toward snares, pitfalls and betrayals whence least suspected.

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Weinberger's, Leed's and drug stores everywhere.

GALION COUPLE MARRIED AT CHURCH BY REV. ROBERTSON

GALION—Rev. W. N. Robertson officiated for the marriage of Betty Jean Berger and Donald M. Brumfield, Saturday evening at 7:15 o'clock at the parsonage of the First Methodist church.

Wearing a one-piece suite of teale blue with matching coat and hat, the bride's outfit was completed with shoulder corsage. She is the daughter of F. E. Berger, former Galionite who is now located in California. For the past year she has been making her home with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bates, 228 South Boston street, and in the spring was graduated from Galion high school.

Mr. Brumfield is the son of Mrs. Mamie Brumfield of Galion. He was graduated from Gallipolis high school.

The couple was attended by Betty Snyder of Shelby, and Paul Brumfield, brother of the bridegroom. Gene Berger, brother of the bride, and Ora Brumfield, sister of the bridegroom, also were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Brumfield are making their home in the Flannery apartments on Harding way east. Both are employed at the Stratbury Manufacturing company.

URGES SHELBY COUNCIL OFFER OWN GAS RATE

Councilman Would Not Wait For Company Proposal; New Officer Hired.

SHELBY—Councilman Charles Swanger last night proposed to city council at its regular meeting that the body prepare a schedule of gas rates to replace the one which expired Oct. 19.

Swanger urged that council present its own schedule to the Ohio Fuel Gas company without waiting for the utility to make a proposal.

The council authorized Finance Director Chester P. Monn to correspond with other cities about the size of Shelby to find out what gas rates are being paid by their consumers. The matter was tabled until the next meeting when Monn will bring in his report.

Council authorized Mayor W. R. Morris to hire a desk officer for the Sheby police department.

The desk officer will not serve under civil service. He will receive a salary of $65 a month.

A resolution authorizing the transfer of $750 from the general fund to the poor relief fund was approved.

Council also passed an ordinance setting the assessments at $67.50 per lot for property owners deriving benefits from a sanitary sewer built along an alley adjacent to Tucker avenue and Summit street.

Another ordinance declaring it necessary to construct a sanitary sewer along Mack avenue south of Simeon avenue was approved.

Council authorized Finance Director Monn to pay Ralph Rusk of Mansfield $21 for damage received on his car when its wheels hit a low place on Tucker avenue.

Legislation was passed to improve sidewalks in front of the Harry Houpt property on West street and along Raymond avenue where new sidewalks are being laid this week to the hospital on the north side of the street.

Both High-Priced Car Owners and Lowest-Priced Car Owners

are Switching To Pontiac this year

Pistons provide an excellent example of the 1942 Pontiac's quality. These light alloy iron pistons are exactly the same type as used in past years in over two million cars. Bearings, connecting rods and other vital parts also remain unchanged.

THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE—GENERAL MOTORS' MASTERPIECE

THIS YEAR, the ratio of new Pontiac Torpedoes being bought by former owners of high-priced cars and lowest-priced cars is greater than ever. Expensive car owners are finding that the 1942 Pontiac enables them to reduce their motoring costs and still enjoy the ownership of a car that is big, impressive, comfortable and of the finest quality. Lowest-priced car owners are switching to Pontiac because the difference in price is so slight that they say it's hardly noticeable—and Pontiac gives them finer performance, a better ride, greater handling ease and increased safety plus record, all-around economy. Naturally, Pontiac engineers were able to achieve such quality without interference with critical materials essential to national defense.

Your present car may cover part or perhaps all of the down payments on a 1942 Pontiac. The balance may be paid in monthly installments.

AVAILABLE AS A SIX OR AN EIGHT IN ANY MODEL

Proud To Be Doing Our Part

Pontiac is doing its part for National Defense by building a new type of rapid-fire cannon for the United States Navy. Two plants, covering 426,123 square feet of floor space, have been devoted to the manufacture of these cannon. Thousands of craftsmen have been trained for the highly technical machines. This means building fewer cars—but Pontiac places defense work ahead of everything else.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1941.

The Ship of State is so old-fashioned that everybody is supposed to take a turn at the oars.

This is election day—better take a look at your watch—maybe it is not yet too late to vote, if you haven't already done so.

Eleven persons were injured and windows were smashed in a dozen automobiles when members of rival A. F. of L. unions clashed in Detroit the other day—but no outsiders are welcomed in such family quarrels.

Voters are Expressing Preferences

MANSFIELD voters are deciding today on the men who will be employed to look after public business in this city during the next two years.

In all probability the result will be known before midnight tonight, and by tomorrow Mansfielders will have accepted the outcome philosophically and settled down to what many regard as more important things.

Whichever of the candidates is elected to the office of mayor, it may be assumed that he will endeavor, to the extent of his ability, to perform the duties of the position in a way that he believes will best serve the interests of Mansfield and its people.

This also applies to candidates for other city offices, each of whom has evidenced interest in city affairs and activity in the political party he represents.

Partisan politics has played such a small part in the selection of Mansfield officials, for a number of years, that the suggestion has frequently been made that a plan should be worked out to select municipal officials on a non-partisan ballot, so that city business could be conducted without political bias, or partiality, and with less likelihood of change of administration every two years.

Non-partisan choice of judges, and of members of the board of education, is already quite satisfactorily in effect, and there is no apparent good reason why this should not be extended further, with the possible later effect of attracting to public offices persons of recognized capability who are unwilling to subject themselves to the strain and unpleasantness of a political campaign.

Consideration has also been given locally to the subject of a charter form of municipal government, with a city manager, which has been adopted in a number of Ohio cities and elsewhere over the country.

Except for gathering information, however, nothing has yet been done along this line and it appears improbable that, even with growing interest, there will be any definite action within the next few years.

Rewards for Those Who Prepare

HERE is interesting advice given to young doctors by Dr. Marion Blankenhorn, professor of medicine of the University of Cincinnati.

"Put your money into more and better training," he said. "Inflation can't destroy it; the government can't take it away."

Young people in other professions and occupations may take the hint, too. At its worst, the period that follows the present world crisis will be fraught with problems which cannot be solved by old methods and ideas but will demand up-to-date skills. At its best, it will offer a tremendous opportunity for those best prepared in their special fields. They will be called upon for the great technical tasks of readjustment, rebuilding and new development at home and abroad.

It isn't possible today to make blueprints of the future. The important thing is to be mentally, physically and technically equipped for making necessary changes when the time comes and the factors of the new era are known.

No Progress Without Freedom

PROGRESS in science has been made by the unorthodox individual," said President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University in a recent address.

"He cannot survive a regimented social order. If we value a continuation of scientific advance, either in pure science or technology, I do not see how we can fail to be concerned for the preservation of both free initiative and free democratic institutions.

"We must not let the momentary triumph of totalitarian states fool us, nor let our eyes be diverted from the fact that three paths of development—political freedom, free enterprise and science—run parallel. The world's present travail makes their brief history an ever more precious heritage. We have learned that we cannot lose one without suffering the loss of all."

President Conant expresses this truth in complete and comprehensive language. The average American knows it in simpler terms, and is beginning to tell the world that he knows it.

Taming Russia's Wild Boys

COMMENTING on the transfer of the Russian government to Samara, in the remote interior, an American newspaper man tells of a surprising experience he had there a few years ago.

In seeing the city, he had as a guide a young man who was pleasant, courteous and intelligent, and spoke English with a strong accent but with unusual precision.

It developed that seven years before, that obviously civilized youth had been one of the horde of wild and homeless boys found in all Russian cities at that time, roaming the streets in gangs, clad in rags and stealing their food. He could not remember his father or mother, who were killed in the revolution. For years he lived like a wild animal. Then the police picked him up and forced him into the navy, and afterwards he was sent to school in Moscow. There he studied languages and became an official interpreter. He was hoping to enter a university.

A story like this helps Americans to understand a little better the incredible change that seems to have come over Russia in the last few years. Russian ideology isn't any more acceptable than it was before, and there are still vast cruelties and injustices perpetrated there; but with the usual contradictions of the Orient, to which Russia belongs, there are also surprising evidences of progress.

A watch which weighs four pounds and five ounces is included in an eastern display of antiques—and may have inspired the remark, "Time hangs heavily."

An experimenter jubilantly reports he has successfully grafted tomato vines on tobacco plants—which should require an even better auctioneer.

Some people seem to think they have sacrificed heavily for freedom because they can't travel in Europe this winter.

THAT IMPOSSIBLE COMBINATION

Listen World!

It Comes In Handy

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT'S the wasted part of life you resent, isn't it? The hurts and humiliations that might have been avoided. . . . the futile struggles which showed no profit, when you'd always boasted that you would have a "planned life."

Then why did you fail? It wasn't because you lacked courage. You had spunk enough to stand the ordinary wear and tear of existence. You could endure shock and danger...heartbreak and betrayal. Fight, if you had to. Work like a beaver, if necessary. But when the days dragged along in a meaningless monotony, you rebelled. You wanted life to get somewhere...mean something. And the hardest lesson you had to learn was, seemingly, the simplest:

THERE IS NO WASTE IN LIFE.

THERE'S NO EXPERIENCE THAT ISN'T WORTH WHILE.

"EVERYTHING COMES IN HANDY, IF YOU'LL GIVE IT TIME.

EVERYTHING PAYS A PROFIT...IF YOU'RE WISE ENOUGH TO WAIT FOR IT.

Everything pays. Not merely the proud moments...the breathless victories, the gay successes. But the failures and the fade-outs as well! Everything pays. The times when you made a fool of yourself as well as the time when they were hanging medals on your chest.

EVERYTHING, SOONER OR LATER, MATTERS...BAD BREAKS OR GOOD BREAKS. ...THEY ALL MATTERED... EVERYTHING WAS GRIST FOR YOUR MILL...IF YOU'D ONLY BEEN WISE ENOUGH OR WILLING ENOUGH TO USE IT ...EVERYTHING CAME IN HANDY.

It may not have come in handy as you planned it should. It may not have paid the dividends you desired or expected. But it always held a profit, IF YOU HAD THE COURAGE OR WISDOM TO WAIT FOR THE PAY-OFF.

People praise your tolerance and tenderness today. But you would never have known how to deal with other fools if you hadn't been a Prize Fool, once, yourself...You'd never have known how to choke back a sob, if you hadn't gulped back many a tear. You'd never have had the courage to make a fresh start, if you hadn't barked your shins over many an old mistake.

WE LEARN ABOUT LIVING BY LIVING, AND THAT'S THE TOUGHEST LESSON WE HAVE TO LEARN IN LIFE.

That doesn't mean hand-picked, star-spangled living with foolproof frills. It doesn't mean spotlights 'n' medals 'n' brass bands. It means living, just-as-it-comes...good breaks and bad ...dumb gestures as well as wise ones.

For they'll all come in handy, sooner or later, if you'll give them time. They can all teach you something, and it's up to you what they'll teach you . . . love, loyalty and laughter . . . or bitterness, suspicion and double-dealing.

Whatever happens to you is "the makings." The makings of a joyous, abundant and generous life...or the makings of a feverish and frustrated one. Just such "makings" as come to millions of other men and women.

THERE'S THE DEAL. HOW WILL YOU PLAY IT?

IT'S UP TO YOU!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Nov. 4, 1921.

"The Passing Show" was presented at the Coliseum by Mansfield high school students.

George H. Stewart, 82, Civil war veteran, died at his home, 24 Glessner avenue.

Incorporation papers were issued to Lincoln Finance company, capitalized at $500,000.

One thousand telephones were put out of service by wind and water.

Fire damaged George Williams home on West Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sheets entertained store employes at masquerade at their home on Marion avenue.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Nov. 4, 1936.

First snowstorm of the year blanketed the city with mercury at 32.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cummings, 23 Vine street.

Thelma Hartman was elected worthy matron of the Ruth chapter, O. E. S.

Robert Huff, 4, was injured when he was thrown from the automobile in which he was riding when the door came unfastened.

Mrs. J. W. Ness returned from a five week's visit in Iowa.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes were elected president and vice-president by an overwhelming majority on this day in 1924. The popular vote gave Coolidge over 15,700,000 to John W. Davis's 8,000,000. Davis was the Democratic nominee after a bitter battle between William Gibbs McAdoo and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. He was nominated on the conventions 103rd ballot.

Timely Editorial

Welcome Winter!

There is something stimulating about the onset of an Ohio winter.

It is a part of the climate which produces the most energetic, the most ambitious, the most resourceful and the most independent people of the earth. The great masses of population which live in the temperate zones do the most of the world's work, invent most of the world's conveniences and discover most of the world's secrets.

Our soil is fertile and so are our minds. People of the temperate zones have strong and active bodies and enjoy most of the good things of the earth because they are able to produce the most.

The blessings of winter are as great as its drawbacks and its pleasures are anticipated with zest and interest. So let it come. The people of Ohio have weathered many a one and will withstand this one as well.—Columbus Dispatch.

Grey clouds gather
The wind rises high
And lightning flashes
Across the sky.

An ungodly crash
Is heard at last
And trees all sway
In the angry blast

The rain comes sharp
And cold and bitter
And darkness is pierced
By lightning's glitter.

The storm is furious
It shrieks with rage

Washington Merry-Go-Round

King, Skeptical of High Optimism, Wins Right to Send An Observer

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

As a result of the Washington Merry-Go-Round exposure of abuse of the congressional franking privilege, the post office department has caught up with the Steuben Society for misuse of Senator Nye's frank.

The action resulted from the Merry-Go-Round column of September 30 in which it was revealed that the Steuben Society on June 13 had issued a letter urging, "Dear Steubenites" to come to a meeting at which "excerpts from the Congressional Record will be distributed to the members. These excerpts can be used to publicize our society to great advantage. They can be sent to our race and to others. These excerpts are in franked envelopes requiring no postage."

The post office department claims this was improper use of the frank, asked the Steuben Society how many letters were sent out, since the post office had no record of its own. The society replied that only 1,000 envelopes were used, and they paid the post office $30 representing three cents postage on each envelope.

WASHINGTON—British demands for greater censorship of the American press, made public in London last week, are not new to executives of the U. S. army and navy. They have been hearing these British complaints for some time—and with mixed sympathy.

The oretically U. S. officials are inclined to agree with the British that perhaps some news should be withheld from the American press. On the other hand, those who understand American public opinion realized that President Roosevelt has a far different problem from that of the British in educating public opinion.

Britain is in the war and the public has been accustomed to war for two years. The American public, however, is a long way yet from entering the war, and demands the facts rather than any twisting or withholding of the facts.

Furthermore, there is a group inside the army and navy which demands more facts for themselves regarding the British military position. They believe the British have been too optimistic, and that American military strategists should have all the British facts, disagreeable as they may be, in order to cope with them.

One very vigorous member of this school is Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the Atlantic Fleet. Admiral King is running one of the most efficient sections of the U. S. navy, the convoys across the North Atlantic, but he believes in looking the facts in the face—even though disagreeable.

Admiral King Wins Out.

SEVERAL days ago King had reason to differ with Admiral William Standley, retired, who went to Russia as advisor to Averell Harriman. Standley, after stopping also in London, came back with an enthusiastic 60-page report glowing with Russo-British ability to hold out.

When Admiral King heard of this he went to the White House and registered an emphatic protest against the "Pollyanna stuff." He told the president that he did not trust Admiral Standley's report and wanted to send his own observer to the Mediterranean to look over the British situation.

Admiral King can be a tough talker, and he did not mince words with Roosevelt. He intimated that the president might remove him if he wished, but that he (King) had to know what the U. S. fleet faced in the Atlantic.

So the president gave him permission to send one of his own Atlantic fleet officers to look over the British situation.

What King and other army-navy commanders are chiefly worried about is the British position in the Near East. Here morale is reported at low ebb; troops are still poorly equipped.

All of which may be highly exaggerated. But U. S. army and navy strategists want to know—without any British censorship.

Secret Nazi Map.

HERE are the details of that secret Nazi map, dividing South America into five vassal states, which was disclosed by the president in his Navy day speech:

1. Starting at the top of the southern continent, the Nazis grouped the following to make up one of their proposed subject provinces: Columbia, Venezuela, and the three Guianas, British, French, and Dutch.

2. South of Columbia and extending down the west coast, another grouping consists of Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and the northern half of Chile.

3. A third aggregation is built around Argentina, to which is added the southern half of Chile on the west coast (where there already is a large German population) and on the east coast, Uruguay, Paraguay, and the Falkland Islands. The latter belongs to Britain.

4 & 5. The fourth and fifth vassal states on the Nazi map are made up by splitting Brazil into two parts; one province with the Amazon as its eastern border; the other the equally rich and nearly as large industrial Atlantic coast region.

Three of the subject states would be agricultural and two, the coastal section of Brazil and Argentina, industrial.

But that isn't all. The map also reveals that the Nazis would subdivide these five states into 117 political units, each bossed by a Nazi, who in turn would be subject to one of the five Gauleiters ruling Nazified South America.

Note—The secret Nazi map was obtained from a high German agent, whose papers were seized while he was en route to Buenos Aires by way of Japan. However, the map is almost identical with the one obtained by liberal Argentine representatives in 1938, and which was shown to the state department at that time in an effort to persuade Secretary Hull not to cooperate with General Franco in Spain. Liberal Argentines considered Franco the Stooge of Hitler and showed what Hitler's demands were against South America. However, the map was poo-poohed by the state department at that time, and Secretary Hull continued his appeasement of Franco.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—"After Honolulu," Carl Van Doren said, "I thought I would never be able to live in New York again. But then I found this. Come over here and I'll show you what I mean."

He led the way to a small balcony that looked out over the upper curve of Central park. A quarter of a mile away its lakes and trees were dashing themselves against the skyscrapers of Manhattan, as waves break against a rocky shore.

"Yonder is the real skyline of New York," he went on, "not the one down town by the Battery, not the one you see from the river."

He was right. The sprawling green and the turreted rocks against the climbing spires were a poet's conception of nature's eternal conflict with man.

WE STOOD there for awhile in the late afternoon light, admiring the view, then turned into the high, book-lined study, where, by the hundreds, reposed the volumes of source material from which had come much of his Pulitzer prize-winning biography, "Benjamin Franklin," the reservoirs of fact from which Carl Van Doren compounds his histories. All the letters written by the members of the Continental Congress were there, all the threats, the excuses, the reports of the generals — in sum, the whole sprawling diary of those fumbling, uncertain days when America was in knee-britches.

But I wanted him to talk about "secret history," which he has been concerned with for more than two years and which resulted recently in his latest book, "Secret History of the American Revolution."

This is the true story of Benedict Arnold, the traitor, told for the first time. It is the intrigue of Arnold and Major Andre and Sir Henry Clinton, the British general, whose scarlet-coated troopers so frequently paraded among the very trees which now make up a part of Central park.

AFTER the war Clinton went back to England. He wrote his personal history of the American campaign. He wrote thousands of letters. He carried with him his secret, personal files, his communications with Arnold and the lesser fry who sold themselves for money.

Most of these records, and certainly all of Clinton's correspondence with Arnold remained untouched for more than 150 years. Finally it was purchased by William L. Clements, Michigan's great collector of Americana. Carl Van Doren is the only writer who has been given access to these papers.

"Well," said Carl Van Doren, "there was something of the hard, bright glitter of the cobra to Arnold. He was magnificent—from a distance. Personal friendship meant nothing to him. When his friend Andre was hanged he never even mentioned it to Clinton. His one concern was money. He was a waster of public funds, a liar, a cheat. He even tipped the British off as to how they could capture Washington. You can see from his correspondence with Clinton how he haggled for a price. He spent 16 months traitorously living in an American uniform, selling information, before his price was reached. When he escaped from West Point to the Vulture he even tried to deliver up as prisoners the eight soldiers who rowed him there in his barge. Clinton was so infuriated he released them."

I asked Carl Van Doren what he intended doing next. He said he didn't know. "Nothing, right now," he said. It occurred to me as I was going down town in a cab that if a change of scenery was what he wanted he needn't look far. All he need do is stand on his balcony and gaze out across Central park.

A Farmer's Diary

Wounded 'Possum

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AFTER DUSK as I was driving home from town, a car in front of me with very brilliant lights, hit something with the right front wheel. Just at the instant the tail light passed that point, I saw an animal roll down into a shallow ditch. It seemed no larger than a rabbit but its coat was darker. Before I stopped, I saw upon the road's edge some drops of blood, and when I turned the car in the direction of the ditch I watched for signs of life. In a moment I saw a movement among some low stemmed aster stalks, and dwarfed spanish needles.

Very cautiously I stepped from my car—no indeed, it was not a skunk, or the evidence would have risen to high heaven—and moved to within a foot of the clump of weeds before I could see the writhing creature just beneath. The tail moved up and down just once —it was dark and appeared in the light like a thin braided rope. I waited a little longer, looking intently, when I saw a small thin ear the color of moleskin slowly clear the mat of weeds.

It was an opossum, who had borne out well the tradition of his family — no hurry, no matter what. For his exact conformity to type I saw him writhe before me in the ditch. His dark beady eyes looked up in mute agony. His one forefoot was injured.

I stooped low and reached my finger to within an inch of his grinning muzzle. He hissed until his long pink tongue protruded. I touched his flank and hips and rolled him over to the other side. Even in his pain, he was distrustful of my approaches and turned his head to watch every motion of my hand.

I heard a grasshopper flutter at my feet. I grabbed it, placed it on a sharp weed stem, and handed it to my injured friend. He snapped it up and his sharp teeth ground the morsel to bits. I was encouraged and thought perhaps more food would strengthen him, I had some hamburger with me, for our supper. Quickly I opened the wrapper, made a generous ball and put it on the same stem where I had pronged the grasshopper. He ate this greedily, too, and I thought he seemed to ask for more. I folded another ball into a bit of bread and held it in my hand. The scent made him hesitate, but necessity outweighed his fear. Finally he nibbled even the thin part between my thumb and finger.

His morale was higher now. It had been an unexpected and fearful jolt, but I had arrived in the nick of time—so his "no hurry" philosophy had been vindicated. I waited until I saw him pull himself slowly up the side of the ditch and disappear into a clover field.

Our own meal was just a little less satisfying that night, but I quoted the poet Lowell to my wife—"Not what we give, but what we share. . . ."

MILLIMICRON MEASURES BY USE OF LIGHT

It Aids Defense By Helping In Construction of Lens and Reflectors.

(By Special News Service)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Meet the millimicron, a measure of defense.

Here in Rochester, where two great companies are making glass "eyes" for the army and navy, millimicrons are the measurement for precision work.

The millimicron is used in making the accurate gauges for testing optical instruments. It is common practice for the industry to work in terms of six-millionths of an inch, sometimes even closer, in perfecting glass for military duties.

The little measure is part of the metric system. A micron is a millionth of a meter. There are more microns in an inch than there are miles around the earth at its equator. But microns aren't small enough, and so each one is divided into 1000 parts, and that's a millimicron.

These tiny measures, they are by no means the shortest ones used by science—do not exist in brass or wood, but in light. Certain reflections of light beams are used for the measuring.

The step-up in the glass for which the millimicrons are the accuracy monitors is tremendous. Bausch and Lomb was making, before national defense started, 50,000 pounds of this glass per year. Today the company makes 65,000 pounds a month. It has erected nearly $3,000,000 worth of new buildings since the war began.

Before, it needed only 15 men in its hand-polishing department. Now there are 290. Even so, machines have been called upon to do jobs where men were not available. Formerly a machine could edge one lens at a time; now a machine has been built to do six at a time.

The Eastman Kodak company, the other big Rochester firm making defense instruments, has increased the capacity of its Hawk-eye lens plant 75 per cent.

The instruments made here include range finders, height finders and fire-control instruments, and reflectors for searchlights, 12, 24, and 36 inches in diameter; also big 60-inch parabolic type.

Bausch and Lomb before the war made up to 200 reflectors a month. Soon the company will be making 500. Many are made from metal of high reflecting properties, the better to withstand the concussion of gunfire.

One of these reflectors placed in the sun will generate, at its focus, a ray of 3600 degrees, which will burn through a steel rod. This means good focussing—the kind that comes from measuring in millimicrons.

BUCYRUS SEES LIGHT VOTING

BUCYRUS—A light vote was anticipated by political observers in Bucyrus municipal election today. Interest throughout the county has been at a low ebb, indicating a light vote in other county municipalities and in township elections.

Bucyrus, Galion, Crestline and New Washington are electing municipal officers on party ballots and non-partisan ballots are being voted in the villages and in the contests for township trustees and school boards, justices of the peace and constables.

In Tiro a special issue for centralization of the school district is being voted, the only issue coming before voters in Crawford county.

CHAPTER XIII

"Mmmmmm!" Ken sang, low tone, appreciatively. He was looking at Polly. "There's a phrase—'pretty as a picture'—you've heard it, Polly. Well, you sitting there that way with the fire light playing on you—"

"Hush, Ken. It's sweet, but I'm the one to talk tonight. Now—come to think of it, though, you were doing right well! Sure you were, Kent! That's the sort of things girls like to hear!"

"Oh!" He was suddenly self-conscious again. He reddened a bit.

"But listen to me now." Polly had a prim little speech all prepared. Determinedly she went on with it. "Ken, there is a girl at college who likes you very much. She is a nice girl. Very popular. Now Ken, just to be frank about it, we all know you are kind of bashful and all. You lack confidence. That's why I have been making you learn to dance. Now Ken, I want you to promise me something."

"What, Polly?" She had his interest.

"I—Ken, promise you will go tomorrow and ask that girl for a date. Ask to take her to the Freshman Masque. She—I can assure you she is pretty! Oh, she'll be the most popular somebody there! You'll be awfully proud of your date. Will you ask her, Ken?"

The young man didn't answer. He just frowned a bit in sheer surprise, staring at the lovely person beside him.

"Will you, Ken? She's a friend of mine. And of us all. She—Ken, there's another reason, too. In fact your dad would be much interested in that. But skip that for a moment. Just let it be a personal thing, a—a happy sort of personal thing." Polly had to pause and swallow. This was a hard speech for her to make.

"Oh. Thanks a lot, Polly. Thanks. But—who—who—?"

"Ken, it's Joy Boone."

"Joy." He repeated it, looking now at the fire. Polly nodded.

"Promise me you'll ask her. Tomorrow."

He didn't say anything for a long minute. He just sat there watching the blaze. Great coals were forming, casting their warmth. Little green twigs would go "spzzzz!" adding life to the fire, otherwise there was silence here.

Finally he did speak, in tone ever so low and kindly. "Polly, I am forced to remember Priscilla and John Alden. I am—bookish, you know. Do you recall what John Alden did? The unselfish thing?"

"It's the prettiest story in American literature. The situation isn't quite the same here, of course, because John really loved the girl himself even though he spoke for Miles Standish. While you—you, of course—no, Polly. No, I won't promise!"

He suddenly sat up straight in his chair and his voice became stronger, more hearty, as if they hadn't been discussing personal matters at all. His tone was quite easy and matter-of-fact.

"Polly, it's getting late and Ward and Sue will be coming back, so I must ask you something. Will—will you go to the Freshman Masque with me? Will you? Please do, Polly. I'd be ever so honored."

Now it was Polly's turn for silence. Silence, even though her heart was pounding. Matters here had gotten quite out of hand!

He reached to touch her arm. "You've been teaching me to dance and everything. You've been so decent! I sure hope some other mug hasn't got his bid in ahead of me. I'm awfully slow about such things; social things, I mean. Please, Polly can you—will you go with me?"

She knew no peace. Her brain was in a whirl again. She realized, in cold analysis, that Joy Boone was simply man crazy in a way; a spoiled somebody much like Scarlett O'Hara of fictional fame, sought by many men but craving the one who had not asked to date her. But friendship is friendship; loyalty priceless. She knew, too, that Ken's sense of fairness and gratitude had made him ask her, instead of Joy. And yet—

Polly slowly nodded, then whispered. "Yes, Ken, I will!"

Polly awoke next morning with a distinct sense of guilt.

She was up, in fact, by 5:30 a. m., a full hour ahead of her usual rising time. She dressed and went out to the corrals.

"Hey!" her father boomed genially at her. "Trying to catch the early worm? Or is some young man calling early?"

"No, daddy. I want to ride."

"Best time of the day for it. You, Pancho!"

"Si, Senor Buck. I coom!"

Saddle Pintado for Miss Polly. Top him off first; she's afraid of a bucking horse."

"Stop it, daddy!" she grimaced at him. "I don't feel like being teased. You know I can ride any horse Pancho can. Or you either."

He chuckled and went on his way, already starting the day's routine of work on the Paradise Ranch. Polly mounted her fine paint and galloped along the trail toward Cave Creek dam, then swung left toward Sugar Loaf mountain. After a mile she topped a rise and halted there where the new sun could bathe her and Pintado in golden light. Purple shadow blankets were receding from the distant canyons and hills. The bright red of morning was showing on Ribbon Cliffs. Birds she had disturbed flitted through the palos verdes, and a coyote loped lazily along the next ridge after staring curiously at her.

But she responded to none of this; this western outdoors which was her love, her home, her everything.

Pintado was restless and full of the old nick. He turned his graceful neck and nipped Polly's trouser leg, whinnying in play. She didn't respond to that, either. Slowly, as if disappointed, the intelligent horse started walking on back toward home.

She ate only a bit of fruit for breakfast, changed clothes and motored in to school. It was still early. Dormitory girls were barely out of the mess hall. But the Administration building and the library were open. She started toward the library.

"No," she whispered to herself then. "He might be there. I don't want to see him this morning."

She turned and went up the main A. B. stairs, sat down in the third floor room where she would have a class within an hour. There she tried to study. She diligently stared at books. She read a page, re-read it. Still she had no inkling of what it contained. The heavy feeling of misery weighed in her breast. She didn't even revive when people began to come in for the class, nor when good old Dr. Peabody came in and greeted her. That is, she responded only in polite words, not with her usual heartiness.

"Who's your date, Polly?" asked, first thing.

She pretended not to hear.

"Everybody's talking," the girl went on. "Guess what? We're getting a gang together to back you! We are! We had secret sessions last night—you ought to live in the dorms, Polly—and at breakfast we passed the word around still more. We intend to rope in everybody we can. Everybody will be for you!"

Polly turned. Whatever did the girl mean?

But Dr. Peabody was calling the roll now, and that was a signal for quiet. He was such a sweet old fellow that nobody dared offend him.

She had an off period from 10:30 to 11:30 and as usual she drifted down to the Bulletin Board. There she learned immediately what the plotting was all about.

"Everybody's excited about who will lead the grand march," she was told. "At the Freshman Masque, Polly. It will be either you or Joy Boone, naturally. I'm backing you. Most of us are, we think. At least the seniors."

"But—"

"But nothing! You're a ranch girl, aren't you? So are we! Most of us. Who's dating you, Polly? Hunh?"

Shiloh Couple Wed In Pretty Ceremony Sunday

MISS MARGUERITE WELLS and Privafe Richard Keith Dawson, exchanged nuptial vows Nov. 2 at 7:30 a. m. before the altar of the First Lutheran church in Shiloh. Rev. Nevin Stover read the ceremony before an altar decorated with palms, ferns and beauty baskets of fall flowers.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Wells of Shiloh, was attired in a soldier blue street length frock with navy accessories. Her only jewelry was a locket, a gift of the bridegroom. She wore a shoulder corsage of an orchid. Private Dawson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dawson of Shiloh.

Miss Marjorie James served as the bride's maid-of-honor. She wore a beige crepe frock with brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses. Dean Dawson, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Nuptial music was played preceding and during the ceremony by Mrs. N. N. Ruckman, pianist.

Mrs. Wells appeared at her daughter's wedding in a brown crepe frock with matching accessories. Mrs. Dawson was attired in a Defense blue frock with navy blue accessories. Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Dawson wore shoulder corsages of roses and pompons.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to members of the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Dawson are graduates of Shiloh high school. The bride is now employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Dawson was employed at the Shelby Cycle Works before leaving for Camp Forrest, Tenn., where he is now stationed. Mrs. Dawson will spend several days with her husband at Camp Forrest. For traveling the bride wore a Forest green tailored suit with tan accessories.

'Housing', Topic Discussed When League Meets

Mansfield's industries and housing problems were among the major issues discussed at the meeting of the League of Women Voters Monday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Forty-five members were in attendance.

Speaking on "Mansfield's Problems in Relation to Defense," John Routzon, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, stressed the fact that this city is a consumers' goods community with most of the plants working 120 per cent during the past year. He showed the importance of these plants continuing to produce this type of mechandise in order to maintain their present ratings after the year.

His figures on employment in Mansfield were especially interesting to the members. He also listed the 17 industries working on more than $4,000,000 in defense orders.

Jack Balliett of the Mansfield Real Estate board and city planning commission gave a vivid picture of the housing problem here. He told that vacancies are below normal at the present time, but that rents have not advanced more than 1.7 per cent during the past two years.

He explained why the local real estate board has been opposed to the slum clearance project, mainly because it does not provide homes for people in the lowest income bracket. He told of the FHA loans and defense housing programs throughout the country.

Housing indigent families were among the problems explained by Mrs. Katharine McMichael, social worker. She also reviewed the defense housing conference which she attended recently in Akron.

Mrs. M. L. Nase reported on federal housing agencies and Miss Veronica Hanley reported on the October meeting of city council. The next meeting of the league will be held December 1, at the Woman's' Club. This will be a luncheon at 12 o'clock.

Auxiliary Meets At Keller Home

Twenty-five members of the Auxiliary to the Richland County Medical society met at the home of Mrs. Charles K. Keller, 129 North Mulberry street, Monday for an all day meeting. They spent the time working on Christmas seals. Luncheon was served at the noon hour by Mrs. Keller and her associate, Mrs. Lincoln Fisher. Two new members, Mrs. Joseph Bein and Mrs. W. D. Wild, were accepted into membership.

The next meeting of the group will be held Dec. 1 at the home of Mrs. O. H. Schettler, Brinkerhoff avenue. Mrs. Ralph Wharton will be the associate hostess. Dr. Wild will speak on "Nutrition." A dessert-luncheon will be served at 1:30 p. m.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments.

"Plastics" Discussed At Little Flower Meet

"Plastics" was the interesting topic presented at the meeting of the Little Flower Study club Monday evening. Miss Nell Carrigan, Columbia avenue, was hostess to 12 members. Mrs. Marion Downs presented the program telling of this new product and its future.

Roll call was answered by giving current events. Refreshments were served at a late hour. The next meeting will be held Nov. 17 at the home of Mrs. L. J. Smith, 648 West Fourth street.

Miss Thompson Weds Nov. 2 At Parsonage Here

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Virginia Opal Thompson and Charles G. Trackler, which was solemnized Nov. 2 at 2 p. m. at the home of Rev. E. G. Corwin. The pastor performed the ceremony before members of the immediate families. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Thompso.n, R. D. 2. Mr. Trackler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus George, R. D. 6.

For her wedding the bride was attired in a floor length blue satin gown fashioned with short, puffed sleeves, a v-neckline and a full skirt. On her head she wore a wreath of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hetzler, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom of Lima, were the couples only attendants. Mrs. Hetzler wore a navy blue gown and a large brown hat.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Mrs. Trackler attended Mansfield schools and Mr. Trackler attended school in Ontario. He is now employed at the Pepsi Cola company. The couple will reside with the bride's parents.

Tri Kappa Meets At Schwaners

Mrs. Alex Schwaner, 244½ West Fifth street, entertained members of Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority at her home Monday evening. Miss June Adams was the associate hostess. Miss Evelyn Lash, president, conducted the business session. Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held Nov. 29 at 17 East Sixth street.

Contests and games were diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Dolores Shaffer and Miss Janice Sanborn. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with fall flowers. One guest, Mrs. William Cochran, was in attendance. The next meeting will be held Nov. 17 at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bethea, North Mulberry street, with Mrs. Grace Lewis as associate hostess.

Fur Tailleur

Wardrobe Must: A sleek little fur tailleur of flat and shiny black caracul. The skirt has inverted pleats, the short jacket is buckled with ceramic horses. The suit, a little work of art, will pull you through most any cocktail party. Nor will it object too strenuously to being worn at dinner — informal, of course. Most better furriers will be able to supply you with downy types if this is not for you. It's about $400.

Hold Anniversary Party On Monday

In observance of their seventh anniversary members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Typographical Union held a dinner meeting Monday evening at the Country Kitchen. Dinner was served the 13 members in attendance at a long table decorated with patriotic appointments. Hostesses for this session were Mrs. Gerlina Merryman and Mrs. Helen Bracey.

Following a short business session which was conducted by the president, Mrs. Merryman, a talk on the Typographical Union convention recently held in Canton was given by Mrs. Lillian Powell. Mrs. Zora Weimer gave a short talk on the half mill levy for fire equipment. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held Dec. 2 at the home of Mrs. Christine Hartwig, 640 McPherson street.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

COPR. 1941, NEEDLECRAFT SERVICE, INC.

CROCHETED ACCESSORIES—PATTERN 1005

After all, this isn't wearing her heart on her sleeve, so give that college girl or her 'tween age sister this distinctive crocheted set. Mittens are in two pieces, hearts, embroidery and tassel are added afterward. Pattern 1005 contains directions for cap and mittens; illustrations of them and stitches; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

This frock will rate A-plus in your wardrobe, it's so pert and becoming! Pattern 9898 by Marian Martin has its own cap to match, too, with the new "down-in-back" lines! Every detail on this frock is young—the curving bodice that buttons to the left, the single panel in the center of the skirt, the opitional top-stitching and notched hankie pocket. And those three-quarter sleeves are new! Short or full-length sleeves are optional; so is a belt beginning at the darts at either side of the waist and fastening in back. The Sew Chart shows you how to stitch this mode up quickly—why not plan another version with a trim V-neck? For winter wear choose one of the new soft-draping wools.

Pattern 9898 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 13, dress, requires 2⅝ yards 54 inch fabric; hat ⅝ yard 54 inch fabric.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I found Miss Whitlock waiting outside the door, and though her professional calm was apparently unbroken, I detected a note of anxiety in her voice when she spoke.

"How did Mrs. Underwood react to your news?" she asked.

"She was wonderful until just a minute or two ago," I said. "The news that the letter was coded and did not mean what she feared, gave her, as she expressed it, 'the strength of ten women.' Incidentally I lied valiantly for your sake. She has no idea that you ever saw anything except the inside of the envelope."

"You said until just a minute ago," she said. "What happened then?"

"I proposed breakfast," I said ruefully, "and she showed distinct signs of slumping back into her former nervous—hysteria, would not you call it?"

"A form of it," she answered. "I must go in."

"Please wait!" I said. "Mr. Underwood is dealing with her, and he knows very well how to manage her. When I left he was telling her she must eat for Marion's sake."

"The one effective appeal he could make," she said. "What shall I do? Start breakfast? You and Mr. Underwood also will eat, won't you?"

"Not too heartily," I said. "Remember I've been coffeeing all the morning."

"Not enough to spoil your breakfast," she said inexorably. Then the door of Lillian's room opened and Harry Underwood came out, wiping his forehead as if he had just concluded successfully a task which he had been afraid he could not accomplish.

"Mrs. Underwood would like to see you, Miss Whitlock," he said, and the nurse hurried into the bedroom, closing the door behind her.

"I'm all in," the big man confessed, and I sat down abruptly in the nearest chair, knowing that he would stand as long as I did.

"Sit down and tell me about it," I said, and he took a chair opposite me.

"Not much to tell," he said, "only that for a little while it was touch and go. I thought she was going right back into that—whatever you call it, that's been investing her since she came home from that restaurant. But I was able to bring her out of it—and what a woman she is!

"I never saw such resilience. She's all keyed up now with the idea of keeping strong for Marion, and she looks and acts more like her old self than she has since this thing happened. She said she wanted Miss Whitlock to come in and help her dress; said she didn't know where her things were. And she has promised to eat breakfast—in fact, to do anything we want her to do, except stay away from that restaurant. I'm positive she won't yield to us in that."

"I'm not sure that she ought to," I said quietly, and as he stared at me, Miss Whitlock opened the bedroom door.

"Mrs. Graham," she said, "will you please squeeze out the juice of two oranges for Mrs. Underwood, put a small piece of ice in the glass with the juice and bring it to me? And after that, will you please put a teakettle of water on that electric grill?"

She did not say "Hurry!" but I knew that if she had not needed haste she would have put the request for the teakettle first. As I went to the improvised kitchenette for the oranges, squeezer and glass, the big man rose to his feet.

"I'll put the kettle on," he said, and went at his task with a competence which bespoke practice. I completed my own work as quickly as possible, and took the glass into the bedroom, finding Lillian completely dressed in a flowing housecoat with slippers, with freshly bathed face and groomed coiffure.

She took the glass from my hand and drained it, then smiled at me, a valiant ghost of a smile, mirroring her determination to fight all weakness for Marion's sake. And then the telephone shrilled beside her, and the empty glass slipped from her hand and shattered on the floor.

"I'll answer it," she said, rushing to the telephone.

SORORITY MEETING.

Miss Helen Widders conducted the routine business meeting of the Delta Theta Tau sorority, Delta Theta chapter, Monday evening at the Southern hotel. Reports were given on the philanthropic work by Mrs. Howard Heston and also on the rummage sale held Saturday. Plans were completed for the benefit bridge party to be held Nov. 18 at the American Legion home at 8 p. m. Bernie May's orchestra from Cleveland has been billed for the sorority dance scheduled for Dec. 6 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The next meeting of the group will take place Nov. 17, the place to be announced later.

SWITCHING DANGEROUS

If you win the first trick in the suit led by your partner against a No Trump contract, and you read his suit as being of at least four cards, you have to decide whether to return it or switch to another suit. Unless the latter seems emphatically the correct thing, you are usually better off by being servative and sticking to the first suit. Failing to do that you may not only lose an important unit of time in building up what might be the setting trick, but your breaking of another suit may help the declarer solve some problem which would be difficult if you make him do the guessing.

At two tables of a duplicate tournament, bidding of that general nature landed South in 3-No Trumps, the spade 3 being led in each case, East winning with the A. The return lead decided the rate of the contract. One East decided that the heart suit was dangerous while the club A remained as an entry to the dummy, and he therefore returned the club 3 to the 10 and J, the declarer playing the 6 from dummy and giving up the trick. West fired back the club Q to the K. The diamond K lost to the A, the dummy's last two clubs were taken and the diamond 6 was led to the 10 and K. The diamond 9 now lost to the J, setting up the 8 and 7. Since the heart Q had been discarded on the club 9, South's hand was now solid and he made the contract.

At the other table, after winning with the spade A, East returned the 2 to the K. The diamond K lost to the A and the spade 9 knocked out the Q. The club K won and the 10 was deliberately given up to the J. West led his spade 7 to the 8, South discarding the diamond 7, and the heart 5 to the Q lost to the K, getting the contract. Later the diamond 9 lost a trick to the J and the contract was down two.

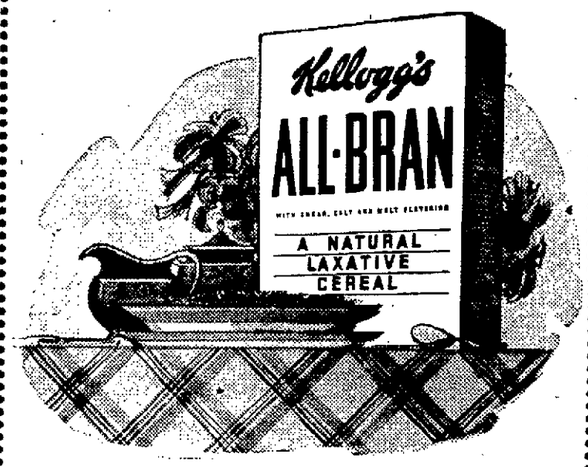
It's an Old American Custom

Remember your first camera? We bet you thought it was swell. But cameras didn't stop improving. Think of your pocket-size "miniatures" today.

This quaint object was once the family bathtub. Few people thought it needed improving. But compare it to the porcelain beauties of 1941.

Making a good thing better is an old American custom! And it's an old custom of Kellogg's, world-famous makers of cereals. Over the last 25 years untold Americans have praised the goodness of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. But now a marvelous bran from one of the world's softest wheats gives ALL-BRAN new lightness, new crispness, new flavor!



Tie a string to your finger and ask your grocer for the improved "golden soft" ALL-BRAN. You'll find it just as effective and twice as delicious as ALL-BRAN has ever been. If you'd like to ward off constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, eat ALL-BRAN every day, drink plenty of water and "Join the Regulars."

GEN. JOHNSON: Plan Income Tax Collection From Wages

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Haven't we sunk any German submarines or other war ships? They certainly have been having a lovely open season on our destroyers. Our early official reports of some of these attacks certainly would not win any Sunday School motto cards for honesty—as later official utterances have themselves confirmed.

Johnson

The public has been fed its information bit-by-bit and always in such a way as, at least at first, to create an impression of unprovoked attack on innocently operating American naval vessels.

Now we are told that reports of American sinkings of German submarines are military secrets. The idea advanced is that like the British, with all their experience in anti-submarine warfare, in a "war of nerves" on the Nazis, it is better not to tell them what has happened to their mechanical sharks. That the British never tell their own people and therefore that neither should we.

Utsnay! or some other rude expletive. The British have given plenty of reports of the sinking and even capture of German submarines, complete with photographs. They have announced the deaths of the most daring Nazi submarine commanders.

If this were a ban on the time and location and circumstances of such sinkings, it could be understood, but in the "war of nerves," what gives more comfort to the enemy—a constant succession of reports of American losses of ships, sometimes replete with photographs and with all specifications of time and circumstance, more or less truthfully given, or a few indications of what these ships of ours are doing to any who challenge them?

There is such a thing also as conceding something to the American people.

The effect if not the purpose of this furtive and wholly indefensible policy of silence, if not deceit, is to create an impression that American armed ships are sailing submarine-infested seas with some such motto at their mast-heads as "strike us on one cheek and we will turn the other." It is curious also that this absurdity should be having its active life while the neutrality debate is active in congress.

This column never espoused the neutrality act as anything more than an expedient for surrender of traditional maritime rights. It argued that after the passage of the lend-lease act it had become obsolete, but it never could and never did hold with any such fenagling as this as a way to get it repealed.

If you hadn't been told anything in confidence and didn't feel bound not only by that confidence but by the administration's own policy of publicity releases, and if, at the same time, you had a pretty good idea of the efficiency and hard-hitting qualities of the United States navy, you would know from conjecture above that our navy has done plenty to Mr. Hitler's submarines and will do plenty more.

Washington is humming with stories of devastating American naval action for which there is no official confirmation. Of course, some of them must be exaggerated, but equally probable, many of them are true.

The only reasonable explanation of this mumbo-jumbo is certainly not the one given—that it excites Hitler's nerves. It is that admission of attack by us might drag Japan into her anti-aggression obligation with Hitler in case another power attacks him.

BROADWAY

Speaking For Myself.

I'VE never in my life seen as many ermine tails on one person as Marlene Dietrich wore at the opening of "Let's Face It." Thousands of little white weasels must have died to trim her stole alone . . . Where's Honeychilde Wilder? Lennie Lemmon seems to have put her in the shade . . . I thought "Dumby" was enchanting, bewitching, and divine, but it seemed funny to watch an elephant picture without little Sabu . . . I've never had an impulse to lead a band . . "Viva O'Brien" proved to me that you can lead a turkey to water, but you can't make it swim . . . I see wedgies are coming back.

As a member of the Trend-Spotters club, I must call attention to the rise to popularity of the new Latin dance step, the Samba. This step is new only in its popularity; it has been kicking around (no pun, kids) for three years at least, in the dance studios and among the professional teams, but it has yet to hit the parquet of the night clubs and other halls of fun patronized by the masses.

Now, however, it seems to be right in there slugging it out with the rhumba and the conga. It is much faster than the rhumba, needs less room than the conga. Mr. and Mrs. Orson Munn and Pepo Russo, those arbiters of terpsichore, have taken it up like mad; the band at El Morocco springles its Latin medleys with samba tunes, and Eddy Duchin and Paul Draper have adopted the dance with loving enthusiasm.

I think one of my fellow New Yorkers' most sinister habits is the fondness for discovering quaint little restaurants and taking me there. I have been taken to quaint little Polish restaurants, quaint little Greek restaurants, quaint little Russian places, and a myriad of quaint little Italian places. In fact, all Italian places seem to be quaint. Just as "intime" means the place is very smoky and there is no air conditioning, "quaint" usually means there are no (or there are spotted) tablecloths and all the waiters are over 96 years old—but the food, my dear, the food is marvelous.

Well, of course, the food always turns out to be anything from adequate to terrible, just as premonition warned, but some curious pioneering instinct keeps me eternally a pushover for such places. As a matter of fact, I've got one myself—it's the most marvelous place, quaint, quite inexpensive, too. You just drop nickels into slots in the wall and the food pops right out.

I've just thought of a title for a play about cafe society, which I pass on free to anyone who wants it: "Ah, Honeychilde Wilderness!" . . . And speaking of titles I wish some movie-wise expert would explain to me why the excellent and arresting title "The Devil and Daniel Webster" was changed to "All That Money Can Buy," which is difficult to remember and sounds like a picture you've seen before.

FORMER CONVICT ADMITS CHILD'S RAZOR SLAYING

Pencil Stub Leads To Break In Case Involving 'Sex Moron.'

(By United Press)

MORRISON, Ill.—Leo Jordan, 23, ex-convict, confessed today, authorities said, to the razor blade murder of a five-year-old boy.

The boy, Warren Snyder, son of a coal distributor at nearby Fulton, had been missing since yesterday noon. When he failed to return at nightfall, his father, Earl C. Snyder, notified police who organized a searching party.

One of a troop of Boy Scouts discovered the youngster's body in thick underbrush in a vacant lot on the north edge of Fulton, Mississippi river town of 2,500.

Sheriff Roy Crook said Jordan was arrested when it was reported he was the last person seen with the boy. Crook called Jordan "a sex moron."

The boy's throat had been slashed with a safety razor blade, the sheriff said.

Jordan denied knowledge of the crime during four hours of questioning by Crook and State's Attorney L. L. Winn until he was confronted with a piece of broken pencil, authorities said.

The bit of pencil had been found beside the boy's body where it had fallen from the slayer's pocket. In Jordan's pocket, police found another piece which fitted the one found at the scene of the crime.

"That broke the case," the sheriff said. "He confessed and now he's very remorseful about the whole thing."

Jordan, described by Crook as a "medium sized, good looking fellow," admitted luring the boy into the vacant lot about 1:30 p. m. He killed the child because "he was afraid he would tell on him," Crook said.

The sheriff said Jordan had been released last summer from the Iowa state penitentiary at Anamosa after serving part of a five-year term for attempted breaking and entering. He was acquitted last Oct. 21 after trial on a rape charge at Morrison.

GETS NEW TRIAL IN POISONING

Mother Convicted of Giving Disinfectant To Child Granted Re-hearing.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — A 21-year-old mother, convicted of administering a poisonous disinfectant to her four months old son with intent to injure, will receive a new trial because the judge feels "thereby the end of justice will best be served."

She is Mrs. Catherine Keiper, convicted by a jury after the state charged she administered the disinfectant to make her son Andrew "good and sick" so a hospital would care for him while she worked. She had been sentenced to two to 15 years in the Marysville reformatory.

Judge Joy Seth Hurd, after studying affidavits and statements in support of a motion for a new trial on the ground of additional evidence, said "it is not in the nature of newly discovered evidence which with reasonable diligence could not have been ascertained at the time for the trial." He declined to issue an order on this basis.

He found, however, that "the entire case presents a sorry picture of domestic tragedy, resulting perhaps from illness, poverty, misery, lack of understanding, discouragement and desperation influenced possibly by conditions of heredity, environment and other conditions too numerous or too delicate to mention.

The affidavits, he said, would tend to indicate a lack of intent to injure the child. He reached the conclusion that "under all of the unusual facts and circumstances of this case, in justice both to the state of Ohio and this defendant, a new trial should be granted."

J. E. CURTIS, 66 DIES AT GALION

Illness of Two Months Fatal to Morrow County Native.

GALION—Jason E. Curtis, 66, died here today in City hospital after an illness of two months.

Born in Morrow county April 4, 1875, he came to Galion from Lexington 27 years ago. At the time of his death he was a retired car inspector for the New York Central railroad.

He is survived by his widow, Laura, at home, one daughter, Annadale C. Keplinger of Urbana; four sisters; Mrs. Grace Rogers of Morrow county, Mrs. Ada Briggle and Mrs. Adie, both of Lexington and Mrs. Mary Freisch of Finleyson, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday in the Snyder funeral home.

ILLINOIS BACHELOR'S CHAMP HUSKER; OHIOANS RUN BEHIND

(By International News Service)

TONICA, Ill.—Tired but "darned happy."

That just about summed up how 31-year-old Floyd Wise of Prairie Center, Illinois, felt today after his victory in the national cornhusking championship yesterday, in which he out-shucked 21 other farm stalwarts from eleven states.

Wise, a bachelor, weighed in with 45 371 bushels for the 80-minute test, and just edged out the man who was runner-up to him last week in the Illinois championship. Leland Klein of Metamore Klein's total was only .155 bushels less than that of Wise, his friend and neighbor.

The new champion, obviously weary, had to steel himself for what was noticeably a trial for him—the cheers and well wishes of the huge crowd of between 75,000 and 100,000 who crowded onto the fields of the Theodore Schafer farm, two miles west of Tonica, for the big show.

The Ohio entrants, George Sunday, of Paulding, and Chester Collins, of Hardin county, finished 13th and 19th respectively. After deductions Sunday turned in 17.41 bushels, and Collins 34.09 bushels.

For his victory, Wise won $100, but more important than the money to every winner of the national is the achievement of a goal which is to every corn shucker what the pitcher's mound in a world series would be to any kid ball player.

Klein, tall, slim and 23, received $50 for second place. Third place and $25 went to Ivyl Carlson of Madrid, Ia.; fourth and $15 to Donley Martin of Buffalo, Minn., and fifth place and $10 to Cameron Krauel of Gray, Ia. They shucked 44.36, 43.25 and 41.89 bushels, respectively.

SHELBY—Three motorists were each fined $5 and costs in Mayor W. R. Morris's court here Monday when they pleaded guilty to unsafe driving charges. They were Philip Dickerson of Mansfield, John Gundrum of Shiloh and Asa Hutt of near Shelby.

BURIED TODAY

Mrs. Lucy Croft, 68, Lived In Lexington For 30 Years.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Croft, 68, a resident of Lexington for more than 30 years, were held this morning in St. Peter's Catholic church in Mansfield.

Following the ceremonies the body was taken to the Lexington cemetery for burial.

Born Sept. 7, 1873, in Erie, Pa., Mrs. Croft died after a lingering illness Sunday.

She is survived by two sons of a previous marriage, Thomas Collins of Louisville, Ky., and James E. Collins at home; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Keeler and Mrs. W. M. Barnes, both of Erie, Pa., and a brother Jack Sallstt.

For many years Mrs. Croft conducted a boarding house in Lexington.

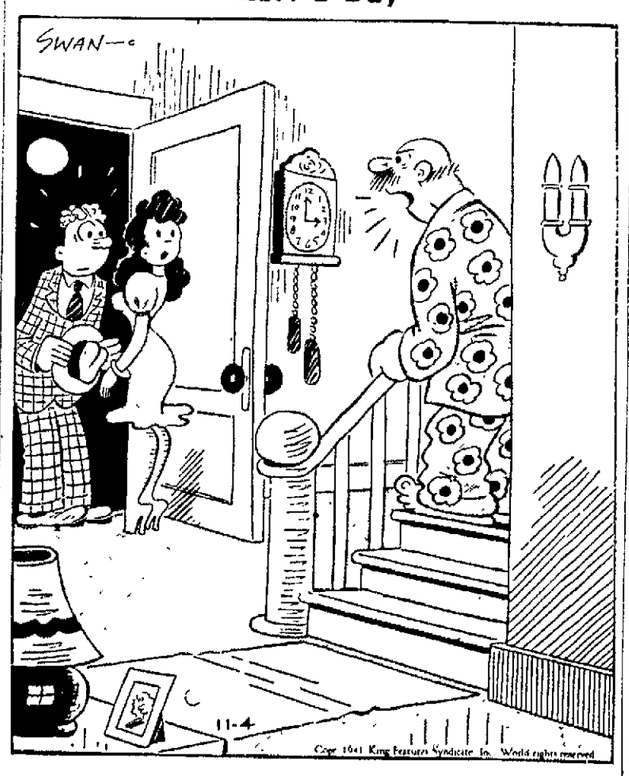
CUTS SENTENCE

Judge Reduces Prison Term For Former Mansfielder.

A 15-month sentence imposed upon Gus Stragala, 43, former Mansfielder, in Federal district court at Columbus last week, was reduced today to a year and a day, an Associated Press dispatch said.

Stragala, who lived in Mansfield for a short time, was charged with counterfeiting. The federal judge who reduced his sentence in a federal penitentiary said Stragala already has served about a year in jail and had helped government officials in prosecuting counterfeiting charges against three Licking county men.

Laff-a-Day



"Is your boy friend an auctioneer? He keeps saying he's going—going—going, but he hasn't gone yet!"

College dance promoters have spent many a night racking their brains for a clever name for a ball, but it takes a junior high school girl to put them to shame. The hall monitors at Simpson school planning a dance to be held Nov. 14, were at their wits end as to what to label it. Just the "monitors dance" didn't sound so well, and the dance committee again went into a huddle until one of their number suggested calling the affair a "Baby Bawl."

"The Snooper," monthly publication at the Richland County Tuberculosis sanitorium, issued both happy and unhappy announcements in its November issue today. Although, the magazine celebrated its first anniversary, its editors announced that "due to depletion of the ranks at the sanitorium by 'graduation'" publication must be suspended. Of course, the knowledge that so many patients had been discharged was cheerful, too. The "Snooper" brought the patients articles, poetry, drawings, cartoons and humor written and collected by fellow-patients.

October, which is becoming the "month of divorces" in Richland county common pleas court, produced 30 divorce and alimony suits this year, four below the record set in October, 1940. Court officials can offer no explanation for the sudden upturn in divorce suits filed in October, but for the past three or four years the month has topped all others in the year in the number of suits filed.

ELECT PECHT

Directors of Retailers Pick Officers For New Year.

Merle C. Pechl, treasurer and general manager of the Martin Hardware company, was elected president of the Retail Merchants association at a meeting of the board of directors last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. He succeeds R. M. Calene, manager of the J. C. Penney store.

Other officers elected include William S. Ross, vice president and Louis A. Ott, treasurer. Ross is vice president and treasurer of the Home Materials company and Ott is the proprietor of the Ott Jewelry store.

V. H. Lodde was re-elected to serve as secretary-treasurer. Calne presided at the board meeting.

ILLNESS FATAL TO FARMER, 71

A "refresher" session for members of the speakers' bureau of the bers of the speakers' bureau of the Richland County Nutrition council will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Farmers Bank building, Miss Elizabeth Bay, county home demonstration agent, said today.

Dr. Esther Mast of Lexington will be in charge of the meeting. Miss Bay said a list of topics for discussion this winter at meetings in Mansfield and throughout the county will be made up at the meeting. Speakers with professional knowledge will be enlisted to talk before various clubs and organizations, she said.

TREASURY MEN WOULD DIP IN PAY ENVELOPES

Experts Devising Plan That Could Be Applied To 1942 Salaries.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The treasury is working hard today on a plan for collecting future income tax in advance from wage earners by taking so much each week or each month from their pay envelopes or salary checks.

Although under serious consideration, the plan has not yet been adopted. But if it is, employers will be required to deduct income taxes from pay envelopes in about the same way that they take out social security taxes now.

A decision is expected before the end of the year, so that the new collection method — if approved—could be applied to 1942 income.

The plan is getting fresh attention because of the recent disclosure of an administration goal of "mopping up" about $6,000,000,000 of so-called excess purchasing power through taxes. This would mean still heavier income taxes on small as well as big taxpayers.

If such a new tax program goes through, the experts believe that it will be impractical to try to collect between $100 and $500 from an ordinary worker in one lump, and hence it will be necessary to devise some method of putting taxes on the installment basis.

As the plan shapes up at the moment, here's how it would work:

At the beginning of the year, the boss would come to John Doe and ask him how many dependents he had for tax purposes. The boss would then look at some specially-prepared table or formula and figure out John Doe's approximate income tax for the year. He would deduct a proportionate amount of this estimate from every paycheck and turn the deducted money over to the government.

At the end of the year, John Doe would make out an income tax return just as he does now, but instead of paying the full amount, he would subtract the money already deducted by his employer and pay the difference, if any. In the event the deductions have overpaid his tax, Uncle Sam would refund the difference.

Wait Nazi O. K. On Sailing Of Red Cross Ship

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The American Red Cross today awaited a pledge of safe conduct from the German and Italian governments, expected in about three weeks, to ship a $1,500,000 cargo of food and medicines to unoccupied France on the U. S. lines freighter Capulin.

With British navicerts already granted for the mercy cargo, Red Cross Chairman Norman H. Davis, announcing plans for the shipment, said that the 5,000-ton vessel will leave Baltimore, Md., for Marseilles as soon as safe conduct is obtained from the Axis countries.

The cargo, including milk concentrates, medicines and infants layettes, will be distributed in France under the direction of Red Cross agencies there.

The Capulin, leased from the American Hampton line for the journey, will operate under a Red Cross flag and will not be "blacked out" at night, it was said.

Two High School Gridders Vie for High Scoring Spot

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

If you are one of several hundred fans who braved the rain last Friday night to watch the Mansfield high Tygers drub Cleveland Central 35 to 0, you probably left agreeing with most of the "multitude" that the Tygers had treated themselves to a let-down.

But how much of it was let-down, and how much weight-down is a question for debate. You have the word of Pop Elias that the Tygers were carting 40 pounds of excess weight, each.

* * *

"After the Sandusky game, which wasn't nearly as muddy as this, we weighed one player's uniform and equipment," says Pop. "It weighed just 35 pounds, compared to the 14 pounds with which it started the game.

"There must have been five or 10 pounds more soaked into those uniforms Friday night than there was in the Sandusky game," continues Pop.

Pick out the thing you do best, whether it's pounding a typewriter, clerking in a store, or working in a shop, add 40 pounds of mud-soaked clothing to your present attire, and see how fast you go, and how long. Then tell me how much you let down.

* * *

"Funniest thing I ever saw on a football field," laughs Pop, "was the way those Cleveland Central boys washed their hands and faces in that big mud puddle near the goal line after our boys scored a touchdown."

"Funniest thing I ever saw on a gridiron," chimes in Tyger Coach Paul Snyder, "was those Cleveland Central boys jitterbugging along in time and step with the referee marking off penalties against us, and chanting in unison: 1-2-3-4-5 right up to 15."

Earl Reichert, the tall fellow who coached Newman school last year and officiated in a flock of football and basketball games in this vicinity, is about ready to don his wings and fly for Uncle Sam.

In a letter dated Oct. 28, from Goodfellow field, San Angelo, Tex., Earl says he already has 130 flying hours to his credit, and that he was leaving for another field, he didn't know where, for advanced training the next day.

"I can feel those wings sprouting now," says Earl, "as soon as I get 200 hours."

* * *

Incidentally, Reichert was at the top of his class at San Angelo. Atta boy, Earl! KEEP 'EM FLYING!

Sell-Out Seen for Big Game

Thousand Additional Seats Placed on Sale Today.

FACING a sell-out for the Mansfield - Canton McKinley high school football game Friday night at Stadium field, Mansfield school officials today were searching frantically for seats for those optimists who waited until the week of the game to put in their order for ducats.

Only a small section of the west stands in the vicinity of the 10-yard line remained unsold yesterday afternoon but arrangements were already being made to add over 1,000 seats to the present capacity of the Stadium field.

* * *

Ticket Chairman George Sherman and Buildings Superintendent J. B. Moke went on a quick hunt for benches to place on the cinde rtrack to seat 1,000 fans, while Athletic Director Harry Mehock obtained the promise of bleachers from Ashland to seat 300 more.

* * *

There is still room for two more sections of bleachers to add about 600 to the seating arrangement, if the bleachers can be found.

Last year's record crowd of 8,000 for the Massillon game is expected to be equaled Friday night for the Tygers' homecoming tilt. A batch of 800 tickets was sent to McKinley.

The 1,000 tickets for the cinder track are being placed on sale today at Central Drug, Yuncker's Sports, Athletic Supply, Tawse's Pharmacy, and Brown's drug store. Only standing room tickets will be available the night of the game.

With the exception of Adam Brandt, still hobbling about on crutches with his knee injury received in the Massillon game, the Tygers are in shape and ready to meet thei rsecond big test of the 1941 season.

* * *

Joe Romano and Bill Pecht were kept out of the Cleveland Central game to give their injuries more time to heal. They could have played Friday, so they'll be in good shape by next Friday.

* * *

Associated Press, United Press and International News Service stories today on Ohio high school football listed the Mansfield-McKinley game as the standout attraction of the week.

Mansfield must win this game to remain in the running for state championship consideration.

Madison Foe Is Tricky

Fostoria Team Features Razzle-Dazzle Plays.

Madison's Rams will wind up the season Thursday night on their home field in a game with Fostoria St. Wendlin, a team that last Sunday edged Sandusky St. Mary's 7-6.

After scouting the Fostoria club, Coach Al Fendrick said his Rams would have to beware of a multitude of different defenses and a razzle-dazzle type of offensive play from the Mohawks.

* * *

On one play, he said, the St. Wendelin team tossed a triple lateral and then topped that with a forward after the last lateral.

* * *

Holman and Smith, Fostoria halves, Fendrick believes to be their main threats. Both equipped with plenty of speed, they accounted for the score against St. Mary's with line slices and Smith's punts.

Against this the Rams will pit their new found and rapidly improving passing and probably the running of Ken Windsor, Harold Hammer and Bob Anthony.

* * *

Hammer and Anthony have shown all through the season, but it wasn't until the Bellville game Friday that Windsor came into his home as a speed merchant.

* * *

So far the Rams have won five and lost two while the St. Wendelin aggregation has won three, lost two and tied two.

37th Division Plays Toledo

Ray Novotny, Former Ashlander, Is Coach.

TOLEDO —(AP)— The 30-man football squad of Ohio's 37th Division from Camp Shelby, Miss., plays its first game on Buckeye soil tonight in a contest with the University of Toledo Rockets in Scott Stadium.

Dotted with heavy, experienced players, the soldiers are expected to make Dr. Clarence Spears' boys earn anything they get in the encounter.

Anchoring the 200-pound average soldier line are Sgt. Harry Bolster, 240-pound former Ohio State tackle, and Private Joe Fitzgerald, 235-pound former Purdue University tackle and captain.

JEFF HEATH IS NAMED MOST VALUABLE INDIAN

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Jeff Heath, the right fielder of the Cleveland Indians who staged such a remarkable comeback this season after a disappointing year in 1940, today was the choice of Cleveland baseball writers as the most valuable Indian of 1941.

Heath takes his place with Lou Boudreau, Bob Feller and Johnny Allen on the Cleveland Writers' roll of honor, they having won it in 1940-39-38 in that order.

Camilli Voted Best Player

Baseball Writers Name Dodger Most Valuable.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK— (AP) —The most valuable player in the National league this year was Adolph Louis Camilli, the siege gun of the Brooklyn Dodgers, a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America announced today.

The stocky first baseman, whose blasting bat and skillful defensive play led the Dodgers to their first pennant in 21 years, carried off the highest individual honor in his league without a contest.

* * *

Of the 24 members on the committee, 19 voted for Camilli for first place, two listed him second, and he received one vote each for third, fourth and tenth.

* * *

He was the only player named on every ballot. On the basis of 14 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, etc., he received a total of 300 points, compared with 183 for his closest rival, Pete Reiser, and 151 for Whitlow Wyatt, both teammates and also outstanding figures in Brooklyn's success.

There was no question in the minds of the committee—headed by Tom Swope of Cincinnati and made up of three writers from each city in the National league—as to which player was the most valuable.

Wyatt received votes from 23 committeemen, although none listed him first, and Reiser was tabbed by 22, including three for the top honor.

Reiser was the rookie of the year in the National league. He became the first freshman in the history to win a major league batting crown, and besides hitting at a .343 clip, he also led the league in triples with 17, in doubles with 40 and total hits with 184.

The ranking for the players receiving 20 or more points: Camilli, 300; Reiser, 183; Wyatt, 151; Tim Brown, St. Louis, 107; Riddle, 98; Ernie White, St. Louis, 77; Kirby Higbe, Brooklyn, 64; John Hopp, St. Louis, 61; John Mize, St. Louis, 48; Dixie Walker, Brooklyn, 34; Billy Herman, Brooklyn, 27; Terry Moore, St. Louis, 26; Stan Hack, Chicago, 26; Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburgh, 22; and John Cooney, Boston, 20.

Ashland Nips Galion 21-0

Marches For Two Scores, Then Passes For Last.

ASHLAND — Ashland high school trampled over Galion, 21-0 here last night, scoring in the second, third and fourth quarters.

First score came as the result of a 45 yard Ashland drive featured along the way by a 25-yard gallop by Leo Strang. Buttles Paglisi plunged five yards for the score.

Bob Doves kicks made possible the second "A" score. As the result of a punting exchange Ashland took possession of the ball on the Galion 28-yard line and from there banged down in a series of short gains for a score. Jim Shull crashed the last three yards to pay dirt.

* * *

In the last quarter, Ashland opened up its passing attack for the final score. Dove chuked a 32-yard pass to Chuck Bartley who gathered the ball in and romped the remaining 45 yards for the six points.

Graf To Lead Ohio Scoring

Brown Expects Badgers To Score Frequently.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Convinced that Wisconsin's dazzling offense "will score against any team in the country," Coach Paul E. Brown today began oiling up his Ohio State football machine for a free - scoring game with the Badgers at Buckeye Stadium Saturday.

Brown counted heavily upon the return of Fullback Jack Graf, out for two weeks with a knee injury, to improve the Buckeye scoring punch. Graf, rated as the team's best plunger, passer and kicker, sparked the Bucks in the season's first three games.

* * *

The squad will not be at full strength, however, since Lin Houston, first string guard, will be unable to play on a knee injured last Saturday in the 21-14 victory over Pittsburgh.

Center Stars For Bulldogs

BILL COOK

One of the finest defensive stars of the Canton McKinley Bulldogs, who meet the Mansfield Tygers here Friday night, is Bill Cook, junior center, who has developed rapidly this season as a line-backer.

Weber's Gain On Safety Cab

Move To Within Single Game of Loop Leaders.

Weber's Beers gained two games on the Commercial "C" league-leading Safety Cabs last night, and now trail the taxis by only one game. Weber's blanked Mayer Drugs while the Cabs were dropping a 1-2 decision to New Method Laundry.

Weber's took scoring honors for the evening with a 2,597 total, but the Cabs rolled high game of 956.

Individual honors went to Burger with a 596 total and a 235 game.

COACH IMPROVES

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Joe Meyer, football coach at the University of Cincinnati, who has been in the hospital twice in the last three weeks suffering from a stomach ailment, was slated to be released today. However, it is not likely that he will assume full charge of the Bearcat team, but will leave actual ifeld work in the hands of Assistant Coach Joe Maxwell.

THE SITUATION: It is the first quarter of the game with the score nothing to nothing. It is your ball on your opponents' 25-yard line, second down and one yard to go.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

1. Line buck?
2. End run?
3. Cross blocking play into line?
4. Reverse or triple pass?
5. Forward pass?

BELIEVE FORDHAM GETS BOWL INVITE 'FEELER'

NEW YORK—(INS)— Indications today were that the Fordham Rams have received a "feeler," if not an actual invitation, to participate in the annual Sugar Bowl game, Jan. 1, at New Orleans.

The presence here of A. N. Goldberg, president of the Sugar Bowl Association, stirred Bowl talk, but neither Goldberg nor officials of Fordham would clarify the situation.

Harry Frick Sets Records

Lumbermen Score Only Shutout In League.

Lumbermen scored the only shutout victory in the Club bowling league at Colony alleys last night, as the league-leading Optimists and the second-place Commercial Managers and Mansfield Savings bank were held to 2-1 victories.

Harry Frick of the Commercial Managers set new season's records for high game with 266 and high total with 649. Previous records were 254 by Christman for high game, and 637 total shared by Frick and H. Doolittle.

Mansfield Savings Bank set a new record for total score by one pin, 2,683, after holding the old mark of 2,682.

Upper Sandusky Back One Up on Dover Star

Tyger-Canton Game Rated One of Week's Best Schalostic Tilts

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's high school teams stepped off the stage momentarily today to allow the football spotlight to play on the most sensational and tightest individual scoring race the state has ever witnessed.

By the slender margin of one point, Russell (Flying Express) Wolfe, Upper Sandusky's scintillating halfback, paced the pack with a 138-point total for seven games.

On his heels with 137 was Don Reinhardt, Portsmouth East's 140-pound quarterback, while third place, with 129, was held by Chauncey Dover's triple-threat luminary, Jack Ley.

Wolfe scored all of 26 of Upper Sandusky's points Monday to beat Marysville 26 to 12, to snatch the lead from Reinhardt, who was "held" to 18 points as Portsmouth East beat Fullerton, Ky., 27 to 7. Ley, who counted all his team's 20 points, a week ago to beat Glouster, did the same thing again Friday to beat The Plains 13 to 0. Wolfe's 26-point splurge was his second in a row.

* * *

Chauncey Dover has scored 151 points this year, Ley getting 129 of them. Tom Harris, Canton McKinley's fine Negro fullback, has 90 points for the campaign, while Bobby Rawers, Bergholz quarterback, has 95.

* * *

Warren was the only unbeaten-untied team to fall by the wayside last week, the Presidents dropping a 21-0 tilt to Massillon's great Tigers, who rolled to their 40th straight without a defeat. Warren's downfall left 15 teams in the select class, three of them boasting uncrossed goal lines.

The "clean" contingent, with the week-end scores:

Portsmouth East (27, Fullerton, Ky., 7); Upper Sandusky (26, Marysville 12); Chauncey Dover (13, The Plains 0); Canton Lehman (27, Youngstown Woodrow Wilson 7); Cleveland Collinwood (13, East Tech 0); Xenia O. S. & S. O. (27, West Carrollton 0); Cleveland Lincoln (13, Cleveland Holy Name 0); Bexley (21, Grandview 0); Mifflin (27, Gahanna 0); Logan (19, Gallipolis 6); Bergholz (48; Jefferson 0); Leetonia (40, Lisbon 0); Wyoming (39, Hartwell 0); Newcomerstown (37, Carrollton 0), and Louisville (45, Canton Township 0).

Fullerton's seven points were the first scored against Portsmouth East's powerhouse, while Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, Mifflin and Wyoming are still unscored on. The Xenia Cadets pace the teams in scoring with 299 points, Portsmouth East holding second with 290.

Along with the unbeaten-untied teams are several which haven't felt defeat but which have played deadlocks. In that category are three of the state's outstanding squads, Mansfield, Massillon and Martins Ferry, the latter coached by Gomer Jones, former center and captain of Ohio State.

* * *

Probably the most satisfying conquest of the week-end was the 13-0 win chalked up by Glennville over Wickliffe—the first victory in four years by that club, which last year wanted to give up football but succumbed to alumni pressure to "stick to it."

Mansfield beat Cleveland Central 35 to 0, Massillon bumped Warren out of the select class, and Martins Ferry defeated Liverpool 27-7 over the week-end.

* * *

Canton McKinley and Mansfield tangle in one of this week's top games, while Massillon meets Toledo Waite. McKinley, which lost to Warren earlier in the season, beat Steubenville 58-6 Saturday, with Tom Harris and his brother Jasper getting three touchdowns each.

On other sections of the grid front, these events stood out:

Chillicothe made 13 first downs to Dover's four, but lost 13-7; Massillon had only three first downs, all from rushing, in beating Warren 21 to 0, the losers also getting three first downs but no points; Piqua beat Xenia 20-14, the first loss for that club in Miami valley competition since 1938; Troy scored in the first period, Dayton Fairmont got one in the second, and then Fairmont intercepted a pass in the fourth to win 9-2; Sidney broke its string of five defeats by tying Urbana 0-0; and a fan tried to slug the referee with an umbrella because he called back a 50-yard scoring run by Carl Bach, Circleville left half, Washington Court House taking the game 7-0 to tie Greenfield for the South Central league title.

Rain forced postponement of several week-end games. Here are the results of those played last night:

Upper Sandusky 26, Marysville 12.

Logan 19, Gallipolis 6.

Cincinnati Elder 34, Woodward 0.

Delaware Willis 26, Columbus Academy 7.

Mifflin 27, Gahanna 0.

Pomeroy 26, Wellston 0.

Tiffin Columbian 12, Tiffin Junior Home 6.

Fremont Ross 13, Bowling Green 13 (tie).

Ashland 21, Galion 0.

Oberlin 20, Norwalk 6.

Columbus East 13, Columbus North 7.

Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home 60, Ohio School for the Deaf 0.

Held Over.

The thrills, romance and adventure combined in Clark Gable's starring vehicle, "Honky Tonk," will continue through Friday at the Ohio due to popular demand. Stirring drama of frontier days, when the rush for gold brought a motley array of characters to the west, the picture presents Gable as a high-powered confidence man, who, tired of getting run out of one town to the next, decides to "boss" a community himself. He is taken over the hurdles by a blond school teacher from Boston, played by Lana Turner, and is assisted in his climb up the political ladder by his partner, enacted by Chill Wills. Frank Morgan, Marjorie Main and Claire Trevor are in the cast.

Dramatic Thriller.

A Mexican border town where European refugees await their visas to enter the United States furnishes the colorful locale for "Hold Back the Dawn," the Charles Boyer-Olivia deHavilland-Paulette Goddard picture at the Madison. Boyer has the role of a scoundrel trying to crash the immigration barriers by marrying an unsuspecting American girl. Miss deHavilland plays the girl. Paulette Goddard, as a worldly-wise friend of Boyer's, Walter Abel and Billy Lee are in the cast. Red Skelton in the role of a radio crime creator gets a dash of his own medicine in "Whistling In the Dark," the second picture, with Ann Rutherford and Virginia Grey.

Bright Comedy.

Mary Martin, the "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" girl, plays a Southern gal with a sense of humor in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," showing at the Ritz. Unable to blaze the trail on Broadway she goes back to the Southland to stage her "discovery" by a New York theatrical agent who refuses to give her an audition in his office. Don Ameche plays the agent and the cast includes Rochester. "Underground," the co-attraction with Jeffrey Lynn and Kaaren Verne, shows the secret movement in dictator-ruled countries to overthrow the yoke that has fallen on the people.

Slap-Happy Comedy.

As a romantically inclined slap-happy telephone operator, Ginger Rogers becomes engaged to three men at the same time in "Tom, Dick and Harry," showing at the Park. Alan Marshall plays the wealthy scion whom the girl hopes to eventually marry and George Murphy and Burgess Meredith are cast as his predecessors in the proposal game. An entire train vanishes from the tracks in "The Great Train Robbery," the second picture featuring Bob Steele, Henry Hall and Milburn Stone.

Heidt's Orchestra.

"Pot of Gold," the James Roosevelt production featuring Horace Heidt's orchestra, James Stewart and Paulette Goddard opens at the Majestic today. The play deals with a struggling orchestra that is given a hand by the girl and finally wins fame and fortune. Humphrey Bogart's thriller, "The Wagons Roll at Night," is the co-attraction.

SHOWS DECLINE

BUCYRUS — Automobile title certificates issued in the office of the clerk of courts in October numbered 648 as compared with 571 in September and 847 in October, 1940.

Ruling Requires Plumbers to Take Exam Thursday

A number of Mansfield plumbers are going to have to take an examination to prove their fitness. There's little doubt that they'll all pass the examination but they're going to have to undergo the exam, anyway.

Recent changes made in the city's plumbing code call for certificates of competency from all plumbers working in the city.

Formerly, a "grandfather's nlause" which allowed all plumbers who had been practicing for years to continue to do so without examination, was in effect. The plumbers did pay the examination fee however.

Members of the plumbing board have learned that they can no longer use the "grandfather's clause" and must examine even the veteran plumbers. As they have already paid the fee, there will be no charge. Any new plumbers will also have to take the exam.

The examinations will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the rooms of the health department in the city building.

HOSPITAL NOTES

TORPEDO HITS NAVY TANKER IN NORTH ATLANTIC

Vessel Limps To Port Without Loss of Life After Attack Last Wednesday.

ment with a complement of 107 men.

It is 463 feet long with a beam of 60 feet. The ship is armed, carrying two 5-inch guns and a battery of anti-aircraft guns.

The vessel was the fourth United States warship to be involved in a torpedoing incident in a period of two months.

The shooting started September 4 when the destroyer Greer encountered a submarine southwest of Iceland and the sub fired two torpedoes at the destroyer but both went wide.

The Greer counter attacked with depth charges but there was no evidence the U-Boat was hit.

On October 17 the destroyer Kearny was torpedoed by a submarine which the navy said was unquestionably German. Badly smashed, the Kearney suffered losses of 11 men, now given up as lost, two men badly wounded and 8 slightly injured. The Kearny was on convoy duty at the time of the torpedoing, about 350 miles south and west of Iceland.

On the night of October 30-31 the Reuben James, like the Kearny on convoy duty, was torpedoed and apparently went down rapidly, the first American warship actually to be sunk in this war. She had 143 men on board and of those the navy department announced only last night that it held little hope for the rescue of 7 officers and 88 enlisted seamen who had been accounted for.

The navy report also showed that one man died shortly after being rescued, that the body of another man was recovered and that in addition to those two the others actually accounted for numbered 8 injured and 37 uninjured.

Characteristic of all the warship attacks is that they have occurred in a relatively small area of the North Atlantic west and to some extent south of Iceland.

Fun At Farewell Party

Having a bit of fun with the guest of honor at a farewell party, C. L. Van Derau, left, and Frank Kohnstamm, right, Westinghouse executives, joke with Al Krieg, center, who is leaving the company. Krieg has been Westinghouse press representative for the company in Mansfield for the past two years. Made to dress as a Mississippi river gambler, Krieg was presented with a suitcase packed with the implements of a gambler's trade. Then, in a more serious vein, Kohnstamm presented to Krieg, on behalf of the 40-odd department executives at the party, a pigskin traveling bag.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

For the past nine years I have been associated with the late Charles A. Fox in the painting and decorating business. In fact, I was working with him at the time of his tragic fall from the Masonic Provident building. At this time I wish to announce the continuation of the business on the same fair policy that Mr. Fox followed so many years. We hope that we may enjoy the consideration of old and new customers as in other years.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Hi-Y Meetings—The John Chapman and George Williams Hi-Y clubs are scheduled to meet at 7 and 7:30 p. m. respectively tomorrow in the Y.M.C.A., according to Donald Cram, physical director.

Rehearsal Postponed — Announcement was made today that the rehearsal for the Little Symphony orchestra of Mansfield has been postponed from tomorrow evening until next Wednesday. The session will take place at 7 p. m. at the Eagles' hall.

Granted Continuance — Taken before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today, Ben Speshyock, 25, Cleveland, accused of removing mortgaged property, was granted a continuance until Tuesday morning. Speshyock was returned here from Cleveland on a charge of leaving the county with a mortgaged motorcycle. The charge was filed by the Auxter Motor company.

Court Scheduled—At a district "court of honor" to be held at 7:45 p. m. Thursday in Scout headquarters, awards will be made for first and second class work, and merit badges, according to Scout Executive Folyd Dent.

Optimists Dine — Members of the Optimists club and their wives will hold a dinner at the Susie Janis tea room, Park avenue west road today at 6:30 p. m. instead of their regular luncheon gathering in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, club officials announced.

Back From Trip — Scout Executive Floyd Dent, back from a two weeks vacation trip to Camp Shagdomb at Grace Field, Quebec, Canada, said today his group shot a deer for the annual Scout Widow party, which has been scheduled for Dec. 4.

Hold Poverty Party—Mansfield Co-operative club members will hold a "hard times" party today at 8 p. m. in the cabin of Merle Pecht on the Possum Run road, club officials said today. Dressed in rags and tatters, the club members will be served refreshments following their arrival.

Seek Purse Snatcher—Ann Peters, 184½ West Fifth street, told police last night that a colored youth had attempted to snatch her purse while she was walking on North Mulberry street near Fifth street. She also told police that the youth followed her and she ran screaming after he had threatened to "cut her neck off."

Probe Cafe Theft—Mansfield police today were investigating the reported theft of a pocketbook from Mrs. Irrilla Wappner, 177 South Diamond street, while she was in a downtown tavern last night. Mrs. Wappner reported that the purse contained a $200 pair of diamond ear-rings and other articles valued at $24.

Reports Looting Attempt — Phillip Schmutzler, 630 Lexington avenue, reported to Mansfield police this morning that an attempt had been made to force the lock on his automobile while it was parked on North Park street. The attempt was unsuccessful but Schmutzler was forced to get help from a garage to open the door which had been jammed.

They're As Warm As Toast

These topcoats of ours are as warm as you'll want a coat . . . and their style is just off the griddle but the truly warm part of these garments isn't the patterns . . . it's the price.

That's where they do a real job of heart warming.

Maybe you've been thinking you couldn't afford a new coat.
